THE HONORABLE FRANK J. WILLIAMS

For almost ten years, Justice Williams has served with distinction as a member of the Rhode Island judiciary – first on the Rhode Island Superior Court and, since 2001, as the Chief Justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

Justice Williams is a native Rhode Islander. He received his B.A. from Boston University in 1962 and then entered the military, serving his country with distinction during five years of active duty in Vietnam. He was awarded the Bronze Star, three Air Medals, an Army Commendation Medal, two Vietnamese Campaign Medals, and a Combat Infantry Badge. He held the rank of Captain in the United States Army upon his discharge in 1967, when he returned to Rhode Island and embarked on his legal career. He earned his J.D. from Boston University School of Law in 1970.

After practicing law for more than 25 years (and earning a Master's Degree in Taxation from Bryant College in 1986) Justice Williams was nominated to the Superior Court by Governor Lincoln Almond. Five years later, because of his distinguished service on that court, he was nominated by Governor Almond to become the Chief Justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court. He was unanimously confirmed by the Rhode Island House and Senate.

In addition to his work at the Court deciding cases, Justice Williams has been responsible for several initiatives aimed at improving the administration of justice in Rhode Island, including courthouse modernization, the increased use of alternative dispute resolution, educational outreach programs, and a call to lawyers in the state to serve those in need. He has also been a generous supporter of this School of Law, coming to Bristol each year to greet the incoming class, teaching as an adjunct professor, and coming with his colleagues on the bench to hear arguments and judge our students in moot court competition.

Chief Justice Williams has also dedicated much of his personal life to examining the life of Abraham Lincoln. He is one of the country's most renowned collectors of material written about and by Lincoln, he has himself written numerous books and articles about Lincoln, and he regularly gives lectures and participates in programs for scholars, enthusiasts, and students of Lincoln, including here at the School of Law.

In December, the President of the United States, through the Secretary of Defense, named Justice Williams and other distinguished lawyers and judges to the Review Panel for the military trials to be held in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. The Panel will review the trials and make recommendations to the Defense Secretary and President. Justice Williams will have the rank of Major General during the course of this appointment.

Chief Justice Williams is married to the former Virginia Elizabeth Miller.

Chief Justice Frank J. Williams, Jr., you have served your country and the State of Rhode Island with great distinction. Your commitment to public service serves as an example to all of our graduates, and we are honored to award you this Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Given this fifteenth day of May, two thousand and four.

The founding director of the Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian, W. Richard West, Jr. has devoted his professional life to working with American Indians on cultural, educational, legal, and governmental issues.

Mr. West is of Southern Cheyenne ancestry, born in California and raised in Muskogee, Oklahoma. His father, Walter Richard West, Sr., was an American Indian master artist. Mr. West earned a B.A. magna cum laude from the University of the Redlands and an M.A. in American History from Harvard University. Mr. West later received his J.D. from Stanford University School of Law, where he was a member of the Stanford Law Review.

As a practicing lawyer Mr. West represented numerous Indian tribes and organizations before federal, state, and tribal courts, various executive departments of the federal government, and Congress. He became a partner in the Indian-owned Albuquerque law firm of Gover, Stetson, Williams and West, P.C.

Mr. West became the founding director of the National Museum of the American Indian in 1990. In that capacity he guided the successful opening in 1994 of the George Gustave Heye Center in New York City and the Cultural Resources Center in Suitland, Maryland.

The Mall Museum, the third facility that will comprise the National Museum of the American Indian, will open on the National Mall in Washington, D.C. in September 2004. The facility will house the world's largest collection of Indian artifacts and will occupy the last site remaining along the National Mall.

Mr. West has helped raise millions of dollars for the construction of the Museum, and, informed by consultation with native peoples, his philosophy and vision for the Mall Museum have been critical in its distinctive architecture and program planning. Mr. West's program goals are ambitious: to help museum visitors appreciate the broad sweep of the complete 20,000 year history of the first citizens of the Americas.

Mr. West is married to the former Mary Beth Braden, and they have two children, Amy and Ben.

W. Richard West, Jr., your dedication to public service and your commitment to illuminating the history and cultural contributions of American Indians serves as an example to all our graduates, and we are honored to award you this Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Given this fifteenth day of May, two thousand and four.
