R.W. Becomes Active in State Politics

Local Politicians Comments on Political Science Program

Robert O. Tiernan

Joseph H. O'Donnell, Jr.

J. Joseph Garrahy

Within the area of American Political Studies there is a new and unique program set up by professor Lee L. Verstandig, a seminar entitled "Political Campaigning". It is an interdisciplinary program which seeks to study the ideas, instructions and individuals of American politics in order to produce for those students of Roger Williams College a better awareness and understanding of American political life. This course is proving to be one of the most successful, useful and enjoyable courses to all those involved in it.

The students taking this course are actively involved in one of the many election campaigns going on in the state of Rhode Island today. They have the unique opportunity of learning the inside story and planning that actually go into every campaign. All of us never realized how much time, money, organization and real effort has to be done in attempting to get a candidate elected.

Special credit should go to Professor Lee L. Verstandig in making such an experience possible. I know that great interest and appreciation has been thought of and expressed by many of the various candidates.

Professor Verstandig received some very favorable comments from candidates on his Political Campaign Internship Program.

In conclusion I would like to thank all the candidates for their kind, personal consideration shown to the students of Roger Williams College Political Campaigning Seminar. Once again a special thank you to Professor Lee L. Verstandig for making all this possible.

The Quill

"I am looking forward to having your students participate in my campaign. I look forward to having the mutual exchange of ideas that such a program will provide."

"I would like to personally congratulate you for instituting such an innovative approach; an approach which I feel has been long overlooked, the practical side of political life."

Sincerely,
Robert O. Tiernan
Member of Congress

"I'm certain that the Democratic Party would like to avail themselves of some of these college students and I think the program will be beneficial to both parties. Thank you again for your cooperation."

Sincerely Yours,
Philip W. Noel
Mayor of Warwick

"Thank you very much for your letter. The new course you are giving this fall sounds as if it is something every college should think about."

"Particularly, let me thank you for the offer of an intern for my campaign. I can certainly utilize a young man in my office."

Warm regards,
Senator J. Joseph
J. Joseph Garrahy
Senator

"I am quite impressed with the program that you have outlined for your undergraduate major entitled American Political Studies. To actually have your students participate in a live campaign and to see the evolution toward the day of election, should be an interesting and educational experience for your students."

Very truly yours,
Joseph H. O'Donnell, Jr.

QUILL INTERVIEWS CHAFEE, LICHT

As the present administration is drawing to a close we must decide if our incumbent governor is adequate enough to continue, or if we should choose another man to occupy the title and responsibilities of governor.

At present we must choose between Republican John Chafee and Democratic Nominee Frank Licht (pronounced Leach).

I recently interviewed Mr. Licht at his home and came up with a few very interesting facts. Before going any further I would like to relate some of these to you.

At the age of twenty-one, already a prize winning debater, he became the Valdictorian of his graduating class at Brown University. At twenty-three, a law student at Harvard, he became a two year member of the Board of Student Advisors. At thirty-two he began eight years as a leader in the state senate. At forty he became a justice in the state Superior Court. During his twelve years as a judge, he set up a commission which made the first complete investigation of juvenile delinquency in the state's history. He is also a founding member of the human rights commission.

While speaking with Mr. Licht I learned that he is in favor of a legislation to reduce the voting age from twenty-one to eighteen. Mr. Licht believes that the citizen of eighteen today knows, realizes, and understands the issues and is therefore qualified to vote.

Another important issue is the new income tax which Mr. Chafee wishes to impose. Mr. Licht is against such a proposal, and plans to take steps to defeat it.

On the crime scene Mr. Licht said that there is definitely a breakdown in law and order, especially in disrespect for our law enforcement officials. "We must take steps to upgrade our police, find the causes of this rise in crime, and correct them. We must also create halfway houses for wayward youngsters so as to rehabilitate them before it becomes necessary to send them to an institution."

On the national scene Mr. Licht believes that the Vietnam War cannot be won militarily the way it is being conducted at present.

Mr. Licht's campaign slogan is a definite one.

"WHEN WE SAY WE WANT TO HELP OUR PEOPLE LIVE WITH DIGNITY AND HOPE, WE HAD BETTER MEAN IT . . . AND DO IT!"

— Frank Trudell

Governor John H. Chafee

by John Fattorusso

On Tuesday Sept. 17, 1968, Governor John H. Chafee of Rhode Island announced publicly that he favored lowering the voting age in Rhode Island to 18.

He said that he would propose a constitutional amendment making the necessary changes at the next session of the General Assembly.

The pronouncement was made by the governor at a State House breakfast meeting with many students representing local colleges. Only one day prior to the governor's announcement, Frank Licht, Governor Chafee's Democratic opponent, made the same proposal. At the breakfast Mr. Chafee told the students that he had favored leaving the voting age at twenty-one prior to this voting year. He gave this explanation for changing: "Just in the past year we realized the tremendous effectiveness and commitment of young people in political life." He said much of the credit must go to Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota for evoking this proposition. Mr. Chafee also stated that the young people put on a terrific show in behalf of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

Mr. Chafee was asked what he thought of student demonstrations. He replied, "Demonstrations are perfectly all right, as long as they don't infringe on the rights of people."

Asked what he thought of having a Rhode Island presidential primary, the governor said he was interested.

Editorial

(Editor's Note: Although the author of this story is not an editor, the Editorial Board felt it meaningful enough to appear in the editorial column.)

"When something goes wrong, blame it on the kids!"
Heard that before?

Too much emphasis is put on what is wrong with today's youth. In the past year or so, I've heard so much about the hippies, yippies, teenyboppers, runaway children, their bad morals, demonstrations, etc. While I read so many of the articles in newspapers and magazines about these "troublemakers," all I could think of was "Doesn't my generation do anything right?"

How much do any of us hear about the young men who are giving their lives for us in Viet Nam? How much recognition did the American athletes receive after the 1968 Winter Olympics? What about the many people of this "hippie generation" who are giving so much of themselves unselfishly to work in the Peace Corps, Vista, and other national and local organizations?

I was very upset about the riots in Chicago during the Democratic Convention this summer, for many reasons. One reason was because so many innocent people were hurt, and last, but certainly most important, because I'm an American. The riots were not entirely caused by the yippies and the hippies but there were many adults involved, also.

Last year when racial riots were sweeping the major cities of the United States, Mayor Daley said something to the effect of "Shoot to kill." He later retracted his statement. Yet, as I watched the Chicago police in action this summer, I couldn't easily forget it.

My one regret is that so many people are blamed for the wrong doings of a few. Unfortunately, I have no satisfying answer. Does anyone else?

Ask Lenny

- Q — Why is the tuition so high?
A — Because the students keep paying it. Actually, why don't you check other PRIVATE colleges. You will probably stop complaining.
- Q — Why is the school so crowded?
A — Because there are a lot of students attending Roger Williams this year.
- Q — Should a college student get MARRIED?
A — Only if she or he has to!
- Q — What is happiness at Roger Williams?
A — Getting all your books the first trip.
- Q — What do you have to do to be to the In-Crowd at Roger Williams?
A — Have at least one conflict in your class schedule.
- Q — What do you think of our new class rooms (the Church)?
A — HEAVENLY.
- Q — Why can't we smoke in class?
A — Because either you will burn the floors or burn the desks as you fall asleep.
- Q — Why do we have to wait for our books so long?
A — Because there is a long line. Please try and be patient. Bob and I are trying to organize things as best we can. What happened was book orders were not given in at the given time, August, so blame your teachers and not us or the Bursar. Also classes were supposed to have 30 students in a class now the teacher finds out that there is 45; so what can I say but to hold on.
- Q — Why doesn't Roger Williams College get a football team?
A — It would cost the school too much and the money to start a football team could be replaced with a new building at Bristol. Don't forget, we're a small college and most small colleges don't have football teams, they concentrate on basketball teams instead.
- Q — What can be done about school parking at 160 Broad St.?
A — Get here about 7:30 in the morning and keep driving around till you find one.

3 Theatres Show Films Of Interest

by Steven Silvia

2001 Space Odyssey at Cinerama Theater.

This is visually one of the greatest films ever made, and the result of several years work on the part of producer Stanley Kubrick. Although dramatically weak, 2001 gives the viewer an exhilarating glimpse into tomorrow's space age universe and the ultimate destiny of man.

Rachel, Rachel at the Four Seasons Cinema.

The sad, sad story of a woman seeking love, and a meaning to life. The plot is vague, the outcome indefinite, and the film as a whole, sensitive but weakly done.

Hour of the Wolf at the Columbus Theater.

Another brilliant Bergman film depicting the torment in the life of an artist. Beautifully acted and directed (English subtitles).

VIEWPOINT

Throughout the school year many complaints of problems concerning the students are heard. However, most of these grievances go further than "student talk." The college is aware of many of the problems and tries to rectify them as quickly as possible. Other problems go unnoticed and complaints are never heard. The purpose of this column is to bring to light student feelings, no matter what size they might be, to the attention of the college. This column CANNOT function by having one or two staff members constantly complaining. It is the job of the student to voice any problems, knowing that THE QUILL will bring it to the attention of the proper party. If, for some reason, any student wishes to bring his complaints directly to the administration, he should feel free to do so. Dean of Students, George Douglas, has assured me that he will listen to my complaints registered by the students and will act on them as quickly as possible. In summation, this column will give Roger Williams students the opportunity to gain a new level of expression without the need for any demonstrations, revolts, or peaceful "bitch-ins." This column will serve the entire student body, the faculty, and the administration. Take advantage of it — it can only help.

Francis R. Cottrell, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Cottrell of 17 North Walker St., will receive a Doctor of Science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Cottrell entered MIT Graduate School in 1965 and chose the investigation of macromolecular shapes under flow conditions as the subject for his doctoral research. The office of Naval Research financed his study.

He was recently appointed to the MIT faculty as assistant professor of chemical engineering. In this capacity he will teach graduate and undergraduate courses and will continue a research program for the Office of Naval Research.

A native of Taunton, Cottrell obtained his primary education in public schools here and entered the Arlington public school system for the first two years of his secondary education.

He transferred to Taunton High School and received his diploma in 1961.

After studying at Roger Williams Junior College for a year, Cottrell transferred to the University of Massachusetts where he was awarded a bachelor of science degree magna cum laude, in chemical engineering in 1965.

He was elected to Phi Kappa Phi and received awards for academic excellence from the American Chemical Society, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, and the American Society for Testing of Materials.

During the summer of 1964, he worked as a construction engineer for Diamond Alkali Co., of Clarendon, and in 1965 was employed by Monsanto Co., in Springfield.

Why Viet-Nam?

A Book to Remember

Several years ago, a document came out of Communist China that is as candid as Hitler's "Mein Kampf" insofar as the political aims and objectives of Communist China are concerned. This document was written by Lin Piao, the Vice Chairman of the Chinese Central Communist Party, Vice Premier of Communist China and the Minister of National Defense at that time. The title is "Long Live the Victory of the Peoples War."

To quote from this book, Chairman Piao says: "Just as communism in China succeeded by capturing the countryside and then encircling and defeating the cities, so the global Communist Movement will ultimately succeed by capturing Asia, Africa, and Latin America, thereby encircling North America and Western Europe, and then by finally decisively defeating the United States and its western allies."

And where is all this going to begin, he asked. It has already begun, and the place in which it has begun is Vietnam. "Vietnam," says Lin Piao "is now the focus of the revolutionary movement against the United States, and no matter what action America may take, The Communist determination is unshakable to defeat the United States."

There could be no clearer way to put it, we must stop them now or else — There'll be HELL TO PAY.

— Frank Trudell

(Editor's Note: Mr. Trudell's opinions are based on his tour of duty in Viet Nam, what he has seen and observed. Other students may hold different opinions, we welcome them openly. Use Marijuana?

Don't Get Caught

St. Louis, Mo. — (I.P.) — "Go ahead and smoke marijuana," said the dean, "just don't get caught." Probably no college administrator has ever given such advice. But Howard S. Becker, a Northwestern University sociologist, believes that such an attitude on the part of deans is the only way that campus drug incidents can be halted.

Becker, writing in TRANSACTION, a social science publication of Washington University, does not believe that student drug use can be stopped. "Students want to use drugs and can easily do so; few college administrations will decide to use the totalitarian methods that would be required to stop it."

"One night institute a daily search of all rooms and perhaps, in addition, inaugurate a campus 'stop-and-frisk' law. But they are not going to do these things, so student drug use will continue."

Becker believes that the deans worried about student drug use, but they are more worried about the "great public-relations crisis" of campus narcotics raids and students on trial. Yet, Becker argues, the more administrators worry about student drug use, the more such embarrassing incidents they will have to deal with.

"All increases in surveillance, of course, multiply the number of cases that come to public attention," Becker says.

Becker's arguments are mainly based on marijuana-smoking, which he says is more widely used than LSD. Marijuana, he says, causes student health services much less trouble than alcohol or the amphetamines that many students take to stay awake while studying. "Marijuana," Becker says, "has no demonstrable bad effects."

Becker draws on his sociological studies of drug use to note that drug-taking students of today are quite unlike earlier drug users, who learned to be careful about hiding their habit. Today's students, he says, get caught because they are either ignorant of the precautions they might take to protect themselves from arrest, or are convinced that they have "a constitutional right to get high."

"Administrators," Becker concludes, "must take a calmer view of drug use and students must become more cautious. The main obstacles to such a bargain will be nervous administrators afraid to take such a step and ideological students who wish a confrontation on the issue. But college administrators have learned to live with sex and drink. They may yet be able to learn to live with drugs."

Bristol Campus In Full Swing

Completion Date July 10, 1970

It is the job of this newspaper to report both clearly and accurately news concerning the college and surrounding areas.

First and foremost among these articles is that concerning the Bristol Campus. As promised in the first edition, The Quill will print monthly reports on the progress being made at Bristol. For this report to benefit both new and old students, The Quill will attempt to show you what this new campus will have to offer. In each of the following issues we will then attempt to give you accurate stories and pictures concerning each building.

On July 17, 1969, barring any major disaster, the first phase of the new campus will be completed. In that first phase, six buildings

Long Brings Success To R.W.

Doctor Robert S. Long Dean of Roger Williams College is a man of many achievements. Replacing Dr. J. Harold G. Way, Dr. Long brings a great deal of knowledge to the college.

Holding a Bachelors Degree in Liberal Arts, a Masters Degree in Geology, and a Ph.D. in Geophysical Sciences, he has traveled, and taught at many colleges: Nason College, Maine, New College, Florida, six years at the University of Chicago, University of Puerto Rico (teaching only in Spanish) and came to R.W.C. from Curry College, Mass. where he was an associate professor, and assistant Dean of Students. He has held National Science Foundation Fellowships at MIT, and Harvard. He spent two summers with the A.A.A.S. commission at Michigan State, and the University of Maryland, and is a member of the following groups: Sigma Xi, a research society for science, the American Association for Higher Education, and The American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In his teaching career Dr. Long has taught Chemistry, Calculus, many of the Physical Sciences, and has done research in experimental petrology.

In answer to the question of what the student of R.W.C. can look forward to in future years, Dr. Long said this, "Development, expansion, and relocation." The students may look forward to the institutions growth in which opportunities for contributions and influences play an important part. Commenting on the move to Bristol, Dr. Long was quoted as saying that students should maintain character amongst different surroundings, and keep aware of what they are in college for. It is therefore with great pleasure that The Quill welcomes Dr. Robert S. Long, new Dean of the College, to Roger Williams.

will be ready for use, two classroom buildings, an administration building, a dining hall, a science building, faculty offices, and a large coed dorm. Not counted among the six buildings will be a large modern heating complex. This seven million, three hundred fifty thousand dollar (7,350,000) first phase will enable a total of three hundred (300) students to take up a residence there, and a combined total of 1200 students. It is predicted that by the mid 1970's the entire campus including ten more buildings to the six already stated will be ready. At that time an estimated 1500 students will be able to attend. These ten new buildings include two more resident dorms, an additional dining hall, a physical education building, three fine arts buildings, an auditorium, and finally, a music building.

The college at present is discussing with the Gilbane Construction Company, the possibility of having any of the six buildings of the first phase ready prior to commitment date of July 1969. If this is possible, the college will be able to use on a limited basis, the readied building or buildings for the spring semester of 1969. A Christmas tree which is symbolic of a completed building, was placed on the campus library in August. Students, get ready, Bristol, here we come!!!

To aid in the supervising of this new campus, a new office has been created. William J. Nott, the new director of Physical Plant, is working presently at a hurried pace. Mr. Nott's responsibilities include the supervising of the operation, maintenance of the buildings, grounds, and other physical facilities of the new campus.

COURSE CREDIT WITH NO COURSE

Iowa City, AI. — (I.P.) — On trial at the University of Iowa is the new policy which permits students to get credit without actually taking the course.

Comprehensive examinations now offer an alternative route to credit in the core courses required for graduation in Liberal Arts. For some twenty years, liberal arts students have been required to get eight semester hours of credit in each of four areas: literature, historical-cultural studies, social science and natural science.

Starting in 1955, students were excused from this requirement on the basis of examination scores, but no credit toward graduation was granted. The latest step permits high-scoring students to receive credits as well.

Among the first 125 students to take the tests, 64 were granted credits, ranging from 4 to 24 semester hours. Forty-nine other students scored high enough to be excused from taking one or more core courses, but not high enough to receive credits.

Iowa is one of the first state universities to grant credit by examination under a national program sponsored by the College Entrance Examination Board using tests developed by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. Iowa's Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, is chairman of the board's Council on College-Level Examinations.

From this vantage point, Dean Stuit says: "The College-Level Examination Program can usher in a new period of freedom for students in our colleges and universities.

"Instead of telling the student he must have so many hours of freshman English, core courses, foreign languages, and mathematics, we can invite him to take a set of examinations and demonstrate his competence.

"The brilliant high school student who might otherwise repeat work already mastered can be moved ahead to advanced work. The adult who has acquired knowledge and skill from experience as well as formal courses, perhaps of an unorthodox nature, can be given credit toward a degree."

Dean Stuit expects the number of students taking the examinations for credit at Iowa to increase to about 100 a semester. A decision on future operation of the program here will be made after an evaluation of the first two years' experience. "The experiment thus far appears successful," Dean Stuit says.

The Cool Generation

Haverford, Pa. — (I.P.) — A psychology professor at Haverford College who has been studying the "cool generation" of college students says their problems are the results of changes in national education goals over the past 10 years.

"We have abandoned the goal of every major educational philosopher since Socrates as well as the goal most appropriate for a democracy," states Dr. Douglas Heath. "We no longer strive to develop human excellence — we strive to develop only intellectual excellence," he added.

Dr. Heath suggests that emphasis on intellectual development, particularly in science and technical fields, is excluding humanistic development and may be making students less educable.

From a psychological point of view, he says student unrest stems from too much stress on intellectual development at the expense of emotional and social development. At the same time, Dr. Heath suggests it would be better if students would "blow their cool." He said: "To play it cool is to become detached from one's feelings and moods, to distrust spontaneity, to reject tenderness, affection, sentiment, weakness, serious involvement . . ."

Drennan Looks To Successful 2nd Year

The purpose of the Roger Williams athletic program is to provide athletics to the students and to promote interest and involvement by the students both as players and as spectators.

In a short while the athletic program will be under-way. Opening the 1968-69 athletic year will be cross-country, under the direction of Mr. Robert Reall, who is also the new hockey coach. We hope you have a very successful season.

Roger Williams College will be competing on an intercollegiate level in cross-country, basketball, hockey, golf and tennis. There is also hope that the organization of club teams will materialize in soccer, wrestling, swimming, baseball, and track. Anyone interested in the forming of these clubs should see Mr. Tom Drennan at the Dean of Students office. Intercollegiate play could develop from these club sports this year.

Be Grateful To Roger Williams

Dear Fellow Students,

At this time I would like very much to point out something. That is "BE PROUD AND GRATEFUL TO ROGER WILLIAMS COLLEGE."

Within the last two years at Roger Williams, I've heard many disappointing and disheartening statements concerning the College. Because of this, I would like to try and put an end to this.

Take one minute and say to yourself; "Where would I be or what would I be if Roger Williams didn't except me. Many people like myself were late starters. I for one, never set the world on fire with my socks in high school. Others had family, money, or service problems.

Dr. Gauvey and the administration of this College believed in you and said alright, John Doe, etc., we gave you a chance. They gave each and every one his equal right and equal opportunity. Just think, above all, Roger Williams gave us "NEW HOPE".

Roger Williams has produced many miracles among the student body, and will continue doing so.

With this in mind, I would like to assume that only praising words would be spoken of Roger Williams College, and that we all should walk with our head held high.

I agree that it doesn't have a hundred acre campus, but we are fortunate to have the finest group of faculty, administration, and staff, anywhere, for a college of this size.

On behalf of the Student Council, I would like to wish all of you the best of luck and success in 1968-69.

P.S. Especially, The Quill!

To Roger Williams College, myself, and 1,000 other students thanks you!

President of Student Council
Respectfully,
Richard J. Cook

if student response and co-operation in the organization of these various clubs is prompt.

The basketball and hockey teams after an overwhelmingly successful 1968-69 season, which saw the basketball team compile an impressive 19-7 record, and the hockey team put together 13 wins against only 3 losses and 3 ties, are planning their respective schedules for this year's competition. The general outlook is encouraging and Coach Drennan says that there is reason to believe that both squads will gain another winning season.

The golf team is also optimistic concerning its chances of retaining the New England Golf Championship. The only room for improvement, ironically enough, does not concern the teams themselves, but rather the student body support of the teams. A defense for this statement is the statistics for attendance at last year's hockey games. There were never more than a half a dozen students from the college at the games and this hurt the club as far as morale was concerned. For example, in the 1st round playoff game against Bryant & Stratton, almost three-quarters of the Boston Arena was filled with students from that College. Roger Williams had a grand total of four students and our team only lost by a 2-1 score, so one can only imagine what would have happened with a little more student support.

Granted all of the games were in Boston and the problem of transportation prevented a good showing. However, Bryant & Stratton College is also a good distance from the Boston arena. This year the picture has changed. Half of our games will be played in Rhode Island so we should see a large amount of fans on hand for the home games.

Practice for basketball will begin in October at Central High School and hockey practice will also start in October on area rinks.

A lot of students want to know where their activities fee goes, well this is a major part of it. Let's go out there and support our team, and watch what we made possible.

Who Has the Books

by Lenny Berk

These words of exchange are constantly heard between the students and the workers in the bookstore.

Let us get one point straight, it is not the workers in the bookstore that are to be blamed for lack of books for the college this semester.

Either they have added students to a particular course, creating a need for more books than were previously ordered, or the teacher did not hand in his book order till late August. Books that are shipped to us, take time until they are finally delivered. So please be patient, I'm sure your teachers will understand the problem, and give you certain allowances.

The best way to solve this problem is to politely stop in every day at the bookstore and ask. If the book hasn't come in yet please walk away quietly and not insult, or try and disgrace the workers, it is not their fault, all they do is sell the books.

Kappa Phi Starts Their Tenth Year

by Lenny Berk

The brothers of Kappa Phi would like to take this opportunity to welcome all Freshman, plus new Sophomores and Juniors to Roger Williams.

Kappa Phi is proud to announce it is celebrating its' 10th year of operation. In these ten years, The Fraternity has proved creative in making a better academic and social life within the school. Kappa Phi has received the respect of the students, the teachers, and most of all our Beloved Competitors Phi Alfa Epsilon.

Kappa Phi is also proud to announce that a New Advisor has been appointed. We the Brothers of Kappa Phi would like to thank Rev. Gerald Robertson for his services. We are confident that anything that he may add will be a great asset to our fraternity.

We would also like to wish brothers Dennis Pimenta and Dennis Romano the best of luck in the service, May God Bless them both.

At our last meeting, a break through happened. A beloved brother, Lenny Berk, became the first brother to be appointed an officer rather than being elected. Lenny accepted without any further ado.

R.W. Surfers See Warm Weather & Wet Woodies

Intercollegiate surfing competition is a very popular and growing sport. The 1968 Intercollegiate Surfing Championships was won by the UCLA Surf Club in California. The R.W.C. Club and competition team is entering its second season. Roger Williams is always noted for being first in one thing or another so it is with the surf club. We have the first organized collegiate surf team in Rhode Island. When surfing becomes an approved NCAA sport, Roger Williams College can be proud to say that we were first.

Last season the team entered several contests: The WPRO Surfing Invitational at Narragansett; the Rhode Island Surfing Championships at Newport; and the New Hampshire Open Surfing Championships at Hampton Beach, New Hampshire. This year the club is scheduling more competition within the club; intercollegiate and invitationals. There will be meetings with surfing movies to the better local surfing spots.

The club hopes to see all of the previous members and also any new interested parties for information regarding membership to the club please see either Pete Oliver, Joe Simonian or Jack Vartanian. Look for posters in the near future.
