1Ls Take Home the Hardware in Exciting Student/Faculty Jeopardy

Posted by David Logan on 11/01/2012 at 04:27 PM

With the sting of two years of student victories, and frenzied cheering from the student section this year, a faculty team featuring vets Jared Goldstein and Richard Rose, plus newbies Zoe Argento, Colleen Brown, Andy Horwitz, and Bruce Kogan, fought valiantly, but unsuccessfully, to avoid a 3-year losing streak to student teams in Jeopardy. The class of 2015 and the defending champions, class of 2014, were neck and neck with the old timers throughout, and all teams nailed what turned out to be a prophetic Final Jeopardy answer, with the clue "The two types of tropical cyclones with winds of at least 74 mph." Going "all in" on their answer "What are hurricanes and typhoons," the class of 2015 nailed down the win, and walked away with the coveted trophies.

Many thanks to the terrific team from the Sports and Entertainment Law Society and Tech Master James Brown for all their hard work in pulling off a fun event, as evidenced by the pics below.
