

Roger Williams University

DOCS@RWU

Life of the Law School (1993-)

Archives & Law School History

10-27-2011

Newsroom: SCOTUS Justice Breyer Visits RWU

Roger Williams University School of Law

Follow this and additional works at: https://docs.rwu.edu/law_archives_life

Recommended Citation

Roger Williams University School of Law, "Newsroom: SCOTUS Justice Breyer Visits RWU" (2011). Life of the Law School (1993-). 238.

https://docs.rwu.edu/law_archives_life/238

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Archives & Law School History at DOCS@RWU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Life of the Law School (1993-) by an authorized administrator of DOCS@RWU. For more information, please contact mwu@rwu.edu.

Newsroom

SCOTUS Justice Breyer Visits RWU

Justice Stephen Breyer visited RWU Law on Wednesday, teaching a Con Law II class, meeting with student leaders, and engaging in a Fireside Chat with Judge Bruce Selya of the First Circuit.

From PAGE A1 of the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL: "Insight from high court justice" by John Hill

BRISTOL, R.I. (Oct. 27, 2011) - When some look at the job of United States Supreme Court Justice, they think how they could use the power of the high court to make new law. But Stephen G. Breyer, who has had the job for 17 years, said it's more like border patrol.

The role of the court, and the Constitution, is not to tell people how to live their lives, he told two sessions of students at the Roger Williams School of Law Wednesday, but to give citizens a system of government they can use to decide those things for themselves. ...

For complete story, click here.

COURTS

Insight from high court justice

By JOHN HILL
JOURNAL STAFF WRITER

BRISTOL — When some look at the job of United States Supreme Court justice, they might think how they could use the power of the high court to make new law. But Stephen G. Breyer, who has had the job for 17 years, said it's more like border patrol.

The role of the court, and the Constitution, is not to tell people how to live their lives, he told two sessions of students at the Roger Williams School of Law Wednesday, but to give citizens a system of government they can use to decide those things for themselves.

"Don't get carried away with what we

SEE BREYER, A9

THE PROVIDENCE JOURNAL / BOB THAYER

U.S.
Cor
Ste
Bre
We
the Wil
of l