The Brain Trap

Ame Lambert, Ph.D., Chief Diversity Officer, Roger Williams University

Ame Lambert joined RWU in 2017 as the University's first Chief Diversity Officer. Most recently, she served seven years, including as the inaugural Chief Diversity Officer. Previously, she served a similar role at Champlain College, in Burlington, VT where she was responsible for defining and driving diversity and inclusion efforts, and helped lead the creation of a comprehensive infrastructure that included a strategic plan, innovative educational and cultural programming, and new partnerships across campus that strengthened institutional-wide practices and policies. Ame will lead similar efforts toward improving diversity and inclusion at the university.

The Sixth Annual SASH is sponsored by the University Honors Program, Faculty Senate, and the Provost's Office (www.rwu.edu/go/sash)
