Dramatics Club New Advisor

The Dramatics Club and Dramatic Fraternity of Roger Williams Junior College has a new advisor. After years of successful Mr. Rizzini has handed the play books over to Mr. Bucci, the new guidance faculty advisor. Club officers working with Mr. Bucci this year on the executive council are John McNamara, Frank Procaccini, Richard Guglielmetti, and Pat Matarazzo.

In a meeting early this month the council decided to concentrate on publicity this first semester and present a single three act production the next. With Mr. Bucci's help, "The Lottery," "A Game of Chess," and "War" were chosen for this semester and will be presented before the Christmas recess.

Anyone wishing to join this active and rewarding organization may do so by contacting a member or watching the bulletin board for tryout notices. Electrical and backstage production workers are needed in addition to actors; with everyone's support another successful season will be realized by J. McNamara.

Dean Accepts Challenge

The Roger Williams Junior College Student Council received confirmation today from David Lash, President of the Dean Junior College Student Council, that the "Bathtub Push" was received with great enthusiasm by the Student Council.

Dick Guglielmetti, Student Council President, set up schedules for publicity and the social activities associate. Both schools will start pushing in Fall and Franklin, Mass, and Roger Williams, will begin possibly in Cranston to insist in the contest and attend the Buffet-Dance, both of which the "Bathtub Push" was to receive him to Roger Williams College in Kentucky.

In speaking with Dr. Salatino, we have found that he has very definite ideas on the purpose of the organization as an enthusiasm to work with the students, faculty, and administration for the betterment of Roger Williams. We, the Quill staff, welcome him to Roger Williams and give him the opportunity to speak to you through the Quill.

Welcome By BERNICE FLEMING

MISS WEINER, new this year to the Biology Department, is a native Rhode Islander. She was educated at Pawtucket West High School, Pembroke College in Brown University, where she received her B.A., degree, and at the University of Chicago. She has a M.S. degree pending the completion of her thesis on "Effects of Temperature on Protein Synthesis in Flagaella Reginae." Miss Weiner taught Biology at Brown University and at the University of Chicago before coming to Roger Williams. She feels that Roger Williams Junior College has potential and is challenging.

MR. WEBER, our new sociology teacher, hails from Detroit, Michigan. He is a graduate of St. Mary's of Redford High School, and received his Bachelor of Philosophy degree in the Monheim General Studies program, he has worked in areas of comparative social thought and non-Western cultural studies and research. Mr. Weber expects to receive his M.A., in social science from Wayne State. His work is concerned with the history of social science especially with classical sociology.

Dr. Weber would like to see a more unified program in the social sciences, and more discussions and debate sessions at Roger Williams.

New Dean

Dr. Anthony Salatino begins his career at Roger Williams this year as Academic Dean. Originally from New York he received his B.A. degree from State University in New York, his M.A. from Columbia, and did post doctorate work at the University of Michigan. He was a professor at Columbia since later Dean at Alice Lloyd College in Kentucky.

Progress for Providence

By Dennis McCarthy

The government of the United States is carrying on various projects in an attempt to improve the underprivileged lead productive and rewarding lives. One of the most important new programs of the government is the "Bathtub Push" in the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Program now being tested in various parts of the country. These programs are an effort to guide problem youth to help themselves to lead more productive lives.

Progress for Providence is the local agency which is attempting to solve the problems which confront the underprivileged youth. The aims of this group have already been completed and that data, concerning the conditions which exist in the schools, and also data concerning what happens to the high school dropouts, have been collected. This data is now being studied and may provide answers as to how to cope with this particular problem.

Progress for Providence has seven Neighborhood Resource Units each headed by a Unit Coordinator. The Neighborhood Resource Units serve to bring together all the social workers from the various agencies who are working in the area. These workers get together and discuss the problems which confront them in their particular area. The Neighborhood Resource Unit serves to coordinate the efforts of individual social workers and also the co-ordinate the activities of the various agencies.

Progress for Providence has two Drop-In Centers and two Garage Centers now in operation in the city of Providence. The main purpose, he stated, is to give students the opportunity to "come to terms with life and to come to terms with themselves." Dr. Gauvey spoke briefly about the 10 to 12 million dollar campus in Bristol which will be ready for use in September, 1967. The Board of Trustees recently ratified Dr. Gauvey's recommendation not to go beyond an enrollment of 1900-1500 students. The reason for this he stated is that "there are significant advantages of a small college." Dr. Gauvey at times speaks rather poetically. He makes reference to things that he has read in order to explain a point which he explained just as well without help. He has a fond interest in students because, "They have ideals, beautiful, naive, ideals. They are at the 'buddingness' of creativity, trusting, and can go in any direction." He said, "College is a time of stepping and understanding, a time for great element change in personality, a time to ask questions, a time for opportunity."
A few days ago I was asked to write an article for this school paper. I was indeed flattered to think that anything I had to say would be considered worthy of publication. It has been said, "Language in the dress of thought, everything you talk, your mind is on parade." From this quotation, I decided to present a topic that is much in my mind. At the risk of exposing my inner-self to at least some consideration to their valuable implications. This is to include the possibility of a student's lack of interest in his prescribed course of study; this would make it too easy to vindicate preoccupation. Although many cases of "under-employment" or preoccupation do exist in colleges, many students do poorly, or actually suffer academic suspension just because they do not have enough time to do the important things and study too! We stress the mental development of a person so as to make him ready for college, but too often neglect the psychological development. Just as it is possible for a person to be mentally undeveloped, so is it possible to be socially undeveloped. In other words, he has not to live a little: he must, "pluck the fruit and take the pleasure." As this newspaper realizes its responsibility in presenting objective, informative, and creative articles of interest to the college community, it must be understood by all concerned that no single faction shall bias the overall presentation. The editorship fully intends to exercise its traditional right of pre- senting its position on controversial issues whenever deemed necessary; however, responsible opposition to editorial comment is solicited to ensure a comprehensive coverage of topical material. The Quill stands open to contributions from its readers.

The Editor Speaks

At atmosphere non-conducive to social interaction has, in the past been obvious to both faculty and student body. The editors and staff of the Quill feel that a lack of effective communications between students, faculty, and various organizations within this school has served to aggravate the situation. The Quill intends to provide a primary means of communications within Roger Williams Junior College. As this newspaper realizes its responsibility in presenting objective, informative, and creative articles of interest to the college community, it must be understood by all concerned that no single faction shall bias the overall presentation. New Sorority Formed

While the industrial attitude of some of our Roger Williams students has been expressed in the initiation of a new sorority at Roger Williams Junior College, it will be recognized as Alpha Epsilon, the sister sorority of Phi Alpha Epsilon, a Non-sectarian, as soon as their constitution has been recognized and approved. The officers are as follows: President, Richard Guglielmetti; Vice-President, Thomas Wells; Corresponding Secretary, Roger Williams student; Corresponding Secretary, Richard Guglielmetti; Corresponding Secretary, Thomas Wells; Corresponding Secretary, Roger Williams student; Corresponding Secretary, Roger Williams student.
Plays Scheduled For Year

The Roger Williams Drama Club is working hard to shape up a performance of three short one-act plays. Under the direction of Mr. Edward F. Bucci, the plays will be offered on December 9, 10, 1965. They include some fine student performers.

College Gift

A surprise gift of $5,000 was made by a Student Center. The gift was presented by Dr. Ralph E. Gauvey, president of the college, at a luncheon attended by nearly 800 members of the student body.

In accepting the gift from Richard L. Gugliemetti, council president and a liberal arts senior, Dr. Gauvey said it was a "tremendous gesture by a wonderful group of young people," and expressed the hope that it would be inspiration to others in the community to whom the college must look for campus gifts.

Mr. Gugliemetti said the donation represented the faith of the student body in the bright future of the college and their concrete desire to make a contribution to "the generations of students who will come after them."

Edwin F. Hallenbeck, director of planning and development, said the donation represented a "starter gift" toward the Student Center and said a suitable site would be found for a permanent marker on the campus "so that future generations of students will know of the generosity and loyalty of the young men and women you represent."

Included among the guests at the luncheon were Dr. Anthony J. Salatino, dean of the college, Salvatore J. Piazza, dean of students, Robert M. Sherman, faculty advisor to the council, and 12 members of the student council.

Question of Election Policies

We wish to congratulate the students of Roger Williams who took an active part in the recent student council election. Further congratulations are also in order for their new council members.

Several of the elected achieved their new status as a result of an extremely well-organized and commendable campaign effort. Fortunately, this singular effort served to carry competent candidates into office, however, when seventy percent of the student body failed to vote and the majority of candidates refrained from actively soliciting support, the overall effectiveness of the council may be seriously compromised. We cannot hope to maintain the high caliber of this year's assembly with a continuation of the present slipshod methods of candidate presentation and student participation. A nine thousand dollar student activity fund would seem to be more than a mere plaything to be tossed about by an unrepresentative body of individuals. The situation warrants some thought.

Congratulations:

Draft Status Discussed

By Robert E. Raposa

On Wednesday, October twenty-ninth, the Politics Club of Roger Williams sponsored Major Alfred Spencer Jr. U.S.A. in a question and answer period on the Selective Service System. Major Spencer, who is the occupational deferment officer for the State of Rhode Island, appeared before a large gathering of students in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium to answer any questions the students had concerning the draft. The following is a summary of the more important topics touched upon by the Major:

The Selective Service is currently inducting those men between the ages of 19 and 26 who have been classified as eligible for military duty. Your chances of being drafted are excellent if you are in the U.S.A. in a question and answer period on the Selective Service Merit Draft System. Major Spencer, who is the occupational deferment officer for the State of Rhode Island, appeared before a large gathering of students in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium to answer any questions the students had concerning the draft. The following is a summary of the more important topics touched upon by the Major:

Most National Guard units in the state are already filled to capacity. At this time, college students are not eligible for induction. Students are not ranked for eligibility by the grades they receive in school. Once you leave school, your S.S. classification is changed. Your chances of being drafted are excellent if you are in the above category.

Married men with no children are now eligible for induction. Most National Guard units in the state are already filled to capacity. At this time, college students are not eligible for induction. Students are not ranked for eligibility by the grades they receive in school. Once you leave school, your S.S. classification is changed. Your chances of being drafted are excellent if you are in the above category.

For girls only:

"Daughter," said the mother, "didn't I tell you not to let strange men come to your apartment? You know things like that worry me!" "Don't be ridiculous, Mother!" laughed the girl. "I went to his apartment this time. Now, let his mother worry!"

Father to daughter's suitor: "My daughter says you have that certain something, but I wish you had something certain!"

to reasons of poverty, lack of ability, and opportunity. The type of activity carried on by agencies such as Progress for Providence is novel and the total effect has not yet been assessed. Programs such as these are, however, a step in the right direction and it is hoped that such programs will have a significant effect upon the youth of America. Programs such as these are the only hope for problem youths who wish to become productive members of society and share in the general affluence enjoyed by the country as a whole.

Political Club Officers

In a recently held election the Politics Club chose its officers for this year. After securing a nomination for a post the candidates' names were entered on the Club ballot and as a result Richard Cashman was elected president, Wayne Salo vice president, Dennis Dulude treasurer, Kenneth Puglisi secretary, and Jerry Baum public relations coordinator. Mr. Lee Verrasding, faculty advisor, directed the election with the assistance of an election committee appointed by the Club's members.
