Kappa Phi Donates Gift To Library
By RONALD E. AUBIN

A check for $200 was presented to the College recently by the brothers of Kappa Phi Fraternity. The check is designated to be used for English books for the library at the new Bristol campus.

On March 14, the check was presented to Mr. Rizzini, Dr. Gauvey and Pete Kelly, president of Kappa Phi Fraternity, by Peter Kelly, Roger Beisler, vice president of Kappa Phi; Sal Ficheler, public relations officer; and Raymond W. Walsch, past president.

In making the presentation, Peter Kelly said that the library was the one area that the brothers felt was in desperate need of help. They felt that students would appreciate the gift very much indeed. The library had just moved into the new building and the brothers felt that it was the time to help it become established.

Mr. Rizzini thanked the brothers for their generosity. He said that the library was the heart of the College and that it was very important that it be well stocked. He said that the gift would make a real difference in the library's ability to serve the students.

Mr. Rizzini also said that the library was not only important to the students, but also to the faculty. He said that the faculty would appreciate the gift very much and that it would make a real difference in the quality of the education that the students received.

The students were very pleased with the gift. They said that it was a real boost to the library and that it would make their studies much easier.

The library staff was also very pleased with the gift. They said that it was a real boost to the library and that it would make their job much easier.

The brothers of Kappa Phi Fraternity were very pleased with the gift. They said that it was a real boost to the library and that it would make their studies much easier.

The gift was a real boost to the library and it was a real boost to the students.

(Continued to Page 3)
In Memorium

Roger Williams Jrir College, Providence, R.I., Monday, April 4, 1966

In a sense, the death of Mr. Donald F. McKellar, an '40 alum of the College for many years, is through its manifestations; frantic, almost paralytic reaction to opposition is usually indicative of the deep, guarded nature, an apparent willingness to indulge in base animal actions, violence in particular, and a tendency to invoke emotional response over reason exemplify the shortsighted adherents of intolerance. Maurice J. Nadeau of 180 Whipple Avenue, a graduate of Mt. Pleasant High School, he is a senior in Electrical Engineering.

The next issue of The QUILL will be the senior's edition. It will feature many articles written by the seniors who are responsible for putting the final edition of the year together. The QUILL is a reflection of the students' creativity and hard work. The editors and staff request all-out cooperation to make the final edition the best of the year.
Dedication To The 'in-crowd'

Now hold a broken string.
Now is fogged in indecision.

In "Two Bouncers. No Waiting."

L.A.C.

Destination

By Elliot Fruman

I had managed to keep the airy clouds from the roost and had brought her along.

Now is the time to figure out how to get my
and go south.

I stuck out my thumb, hoping;

As I walked, I examined it or maybe it was the morning brown's... any other word I'm a timid person and I had hardly any money, just from habit.

I've been living in Central

The weather really wasn't very pretty.

I had brought her a white
to Future Pennsylvania, population forty-two; Well,
I discovered that my education was stuck out my thumb,
I thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

This was a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.

It would be a piece of driftwood which
had brought her to her destination, at
thought I saw a tear in her eye.
Kappa Phi News

By RON AUBIN

Kappa Phi Fraternity this semester sponsored its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.

On April 15, Kappa Phi held its "Last Blast" at the Venus de Milo. This dance was again, a terrific success. At the dance, a new group was introduced to the crowd, "Sunday's Child," led by Steve Coome of Roger Williams. The Fraternity has maintained its tradition of enhancing the name of Roger Williams Jr. College; it has reached the peak of ultimate performance among other social groups in the College, and has become the recognized approved student organization.