11-1-1988

The Abridged, November 1988

Roger Williams College Alumni Association

Follow this and additional works at: https://docs.rwu.edu/alumni_news

Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation
https://docs.rwu.edu/alumni_news/98

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the RWU Archives and Special Collections at DOCS@RWU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Alumni Newsletters and Magazines by an authorized administrator of DOCS@RWU. For more information, please contact mwu@rwu.edu.
The October Crash: One Year Later

John Davis, vice president of Dean Witter (Providence), spoke to a standing room only audience of students and faculty about the impact of the stock market phenomenon that has come to be known as “Black Monday”—October 19, 1987. His presentation marked the inauguration of a lecture series presented by the Business Division.

In his lecture, Davis outlined the events of the week leading up to the fateful day. “It was a confluence of economic, political, and worldwide events that caused people to put selling pressure on the stock market,” Davis said. By Friday, the market had lost 10% of its value. “I was optimistic,” Davis recalled. “I bought a few calls on Friday afternoon.”

On Monday, October 19, 1987, things got worse. Davis characterized the selling pressure as “almost relentless. The mood of the day was ‘get me out’.” He went on to describe how the system was overloaded and broke down, and how orders went unexecuted.

“Tuesday [the day after the crash] was very interesting,” Davis continued. One key move that averted a very serious crisis, according to Davis, was the Federal Reserve Board's decision to flood the market with money. The federal government put money into the system through the purchase of securities. “They bought big,” he said.

Davis pointed out that the impact of Black Monday has been to make investors more cautious. “It’s a balancing of fear versus greed, or economic return versus risk. Last year it was won by fear,” Davis observed. Small investors may return to the stock market, he said, but he feels it will take time for confidence to return. In the meantime, he pointed out, market activity is being dominated by takeover activity—leveraged buyouts and the buyback of stock.

Following the lecture, Davis fielded questions from the audience, including a request for his opinion regarding the effects of the fall election on the stock market. “The market is assuming a Bush election,” he answered. “I think that if Bush is elected that the markets will continue on the way they’ve been going. I think it would be quite a shock if our friend from Massachusetts got elected—the markets aren’t adjusted for that right now.”

The fall lecture series concluded with Ira Magaziner, president, Telesis, Inc. (Providence), speaking on the topic “Trade Relations with Japan.” The series will resume in the spring and will feature area CEOs. (K.M.)
Kallmann, McKinnell & Wood Exhibit
Graces Architecture Gallery

An exhibit by the award-winning firm Kallmann, McKinnell & Wood was the first to hang in the College's Architecture Gallery for this academic year. Sponsored by the Harvard University Graduate School of Design, the event was highlighted with an opening lecture by Michael McKinnell.

McKinnell's presentation featured an in-depth look at several of the firm's major projects, including Boston City Hall, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences (Cambridge, Mass.), and Boston's Back Bay Station. Illustrated by preliminary sketches and actual photographs of each site, McKinnell examined the symbolism and thought behind each project.

The inclusion of so many preliminary sketches was a unique point of both the lecture and exhibit. During the lecture, McKinnell recounted sitting through many brilliant architecture lectures highlighted by wonderful drawings, and wondering if the architects achieved this perfection on the first try. He includes his own sketches in the exhibit to show that most works begin with rough sketches before the final drawings can be perfected.

Before his retirement from teaching in 1987, McKinnell had taught at the Harvard Graduate School of Design, for nearly 25 years. His partner, Gerhard Kallmann, is professor emeritus at the Harvard Graduate School of Design, where he has taught for 14 years. The third partner, Henry Wood, oversees production. The Kallmann/McKinnell partnership formed when the two were teaching at Columbia University. In 1961, their plans for the then-new Boston City Hall edged out more than 250 other entries in a national design competition. When the building went up in 1968, it was the first ever to have.

The new building for the Academy of Arts and Sciences stands on the crest of a hill in the beautifully landscaped remains of the fifty-acre Norton estate in Cambridge, Mass. Surrounding the estate are large houses, most of which were built around the turn of the century. The new building crowns the hill as the former house had done. The former and smaller building was a two-classical cubic volume standing proudly and assertively on the top of the hill. The new and much larger building is, by contrast, a pyramidal volume which continues the form of the hill and melds with it. (Taken from notes and drawings by Michael McKinnell.)

The exhibit was followed by "The 1988 Seoul Olympic Athletes and Reporters Village," a lecture and exhibit by Kyu Sung Woo of Woo & Williams, Cambridge, Mass. (K.M.)

The Abolished Alumni Bulletin
Roger Williams College
November 1988

Director of Institutional Advancement
Gary Keighley

Director of Public Relations and Publications
Nondas Hurst Voll, APR

Editor
Kristen Meyer

Director of Alumni Relations and Annual Giving
Lianne C. Oberg

Sports Writer
Marcus Jannitto

Director of Sports Information,
 Intramurals and Recreation

Class Notes
Marilyn Koback

Assistant to the Director of Institutional Advancement

© 1988 by Roger Williams College. The Abolished alumni bulletin is published as a supplement to The Bridge periodical. Produced by the Public Relations Office for alumni, parents, and friends of the College. Designed by Ursula Beck; printing by Reynolds & DeWalt. Subscriptions and single copies are available from the Public Relations Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, R.I. 02809.

Please send letters to the editor, news, and change-of-address information to the Alumni Office. Telephone 800-358-7144 toll free outside R.I., or 253-1040 in-state.

Photo Credits
John LaFetra: page 1; Karras
Photography: page 9: Julie Cornell: pages 6-7, 8 (upper right: Stephen Brigdale: page 8 left); Lianne C. Oberg: page 3 bottom; Marilyn Koback: page 3 (top); Eunice Pielka-Ellison: page 5

Alumni and friends (left to right) Randy Knowles, Nancy Lederman, Susan Lederman '64, and John Heavensides '84 enjoy the cruise.

Nassau, the Bahamas, was the destination for 18 Roger Williams College alumni and friends as they cruised for four days aboard Carnival Cruise Lines' fun ship, Mardi Gras.

Alumni from Rhode Island, New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Connecticut boarded the Mardi Gras in Port Everglades, Fla., on September 29 and set sail for the Bahamas.

Having never been on a cruise before, I must say that my idea of looking forward to finding out if the promotional brochures were really true, or somewhat exaggerated. Believe me, they are true!

Although one of Carnival's smaller ships, the Mardi Gras contains everything a vacationer could possibly want — swimming pools, discos, casinos, and food, food, food. The eight-course dinners were definitely not recommended by Weight Watchers.

Upon arrival in Nassau, the glorious sunshine came as a welcome break from New England's cool autumn days. Travelers had an abundance of activities to choose from while in port — snorkeling and sightseeing tours seemed to be the most popular. After spending two hours taking in the magnificent sights on the ocean floor, I can see why people become hooked on scuba diving.

Friday evening's activities included the Captain's cocktail party and formal dinner, shows throughout the evening, and dancing under the stars to calypso music until the wee hours.

The ship set sail on Saturday morning, and for many the day was spent relaxing by the pool and working on their tan. The Roger Williams College group then enjoyed a private reception before dinner.

This Alumni Association cruise represented the College's first attempt at offering discounted travel packages to alumni, and judging from the enthusiastic response received, it will be the first of many. Plans are already underway for a cruise in 1989, and this traveler is already looking forward to another four days in the sun.
In Brief

The Roger Williams College Alumni Council is holding an open meeting on Monday, December 12, at 7:30 pm in the Bay Room, Student Center. All interested alumni are invited to attend. Following the business meeting, you are invited to join members at a holiday reception. For more information, or to RSVP, please call the Alumni Office at 401 253-1040, extension 2035. (I.C.O.)

Geoffrey Clark, a long-time faculty member in the Creative Writing department, has had a second book published by Story Press of Chicago. His newest work is entitled The Narragansett Times, and reporter The Day (New London, Conn.).

Full-time Faculty Appointed

Seven new full-time members have been appointed to the faculty at Roger Williams College. Following are their teaching areas and backgrounds.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Institution</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dorissa Boggs, Theatre</td>
<td>University of Mississippi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>formerly with the City of Arusa and</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Citrus College (Calif.)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B.A. Mississippi University for Women; M.F.A. California State University - Fullerton; Marcel Dufresne, Journalism</td>
<td>University of New Hampshire; B.A., M.A., Tufts University; Ph.D. Indiana University; Janice Meyer, Education from University of Oregon, following many years of teaching in California public schools; B.S. Southern Illinois University; M.S. California Polytechnic State University; Ph.D. University of Oregon; Eleftherios Pavlides, Architecture from Kansas State University, following Case Western Reserve M.A.; Brandeis University M.A. Architecture Yale University; Ph.D. University of Pennsylvania; Dana Skolnick, Marketing from the Fossboro Company, following Rhode Island College</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Administators Named

One new administrator has been appointed to the College. He is the new dean. The dean added, "Life is a series of problems and the happy, successful people learn to solve them."

Ben Carr, who was honored as Faculty Member of the Year last spring, had the opportunity to address the students next. He has taught marketing and management at the College for the past 19 years.

Alumni Sponsor Ice Cream Social

The Roger Williams College Alumni Association hosted an ice cream social for the Class of 1991. Seventy-five members of the freshman class scooped ice cream and piled on hot fudge at the first of what is hoped will become an annual event. Richard Dieferich '74, president of the Alumni Council, welcomed the group to the Bristol campus and described the many ways in which the Alumni Association and Roger Williams College undergraduates can work together in building a lasting and beneficial relationship. The highlight of the evening was the viewing of the video taken during freshman Orientation. The video will be placed in the College's archives until the Class of 1992 returns to campus in 1997 for its fifth-year reunion. (I.C.O.)

Alumni Sponsor Ice Cream Social

The Roger Williams College Alumni Association hosted an ice cream social for the Class of 1991. Seventy-five members of the freshman class scooped ice cream and piled on hot fudge at the first of what is hoped will become an annual event. Richard Dieferich '74, president of the Alumni Council, welcomed the group to the Bristol campus and described the many ways in which the Alumni Association and Roger Williams College undergraduates can work together in building a lasting and beneficial relationship. The highlight of the evening was the viewing of the video taken during freshman Orientation. The video will be placed in the College's archives until the Class of 1992 returns to campus in 1997 for its fifth-year reunion. (I.C.O.)

(continued on page 5)
Freshman Coins Class Slogan

The Class of 1992 is the first to have its own slogan. "Roger Williams College — Bridge to Your Future" was chosen during summer orientation. It was written by Michael Batterby (North Andover, Mass.), and was printed on a t-shirt given to all freshmen.

For his efforts, Batterby received free tickets to all Student Activity Council fall events and first pick in next spring's dorm lottery. Kara Zdrodowski, Michael Batterby, and Matt Sember are winners.

Roger Williams "Charges" On

Fleet National Bank has announced the offering of a unique Roger Williams College Visa card. Only the Roger Williams community is eligible for this card, which carries the Roger Williams seal.

Every time you use this new Visa card, Fleet National Bank will forward to the College a percentage of the purchase price of every item you charge, at no cost to you. Fleet will also pay the College a fee for every approved application. By using the card, you will be helping to underwrite alumni programs and services.

If you haven't received an application in the mail, complete and mail the coupon below and one will be sent to you.

Yes, I want to support alumni programs and services. Please send me an application for a Fleet Visa Card.

Name:________________________

Address:______________________

City:__________________________

State:__________________________

Zip:__________________________

Mail your coupon to Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, Rhode Island 02809.

Give to the Annual Fund

The 1988-89 Roger Williams College Annual Fund Campaign is well underway, with an ambitious goal of $100,000 in unrestricted dollars to be raised by June 30, 1989. Chairing this year's campaign is Norman Arcand, '71, a resident of North Kingstown, R.I.

The Annual Giving program is vital to the future of Roger Williams College, and to its many students. Money raised through this campaign helps support student financial aid, faculty development, and academic programs.

In 1989, we will be celebrating the 20th anniversary of the Bristol campus. During these past two decades, the College has experienced tremendous growth and received national recognition for many of its unique programs.

Arcand, a business administration/industrial technology major, attended most of his classes at the Roger Williams College center in Providence. He remembers the first time he visited the Bristol campus, and what a beautiful, modern campus it was.

Says Arcand of his role as chairman of the Annual Fund, "I am proud of Roger Williams College, and of all that it has given me. It's time now to give something back. I know that others share in this feeling, and hope that they will give generously so that we can make this year's 20th anniversary campaign a great success." (L.C.O.)

Charles Jungwirth

"Man of the People"

Charles Jungwirth is the new ombudsman for Roger Williams College.

Jungwirth, a faculty member in the Natural Science Division, replaces the late Harold Payson.

The term ombudsman is Swedish for "man of the people." Jungwirth will investigate complaints from students, faculty, staff, and administrators. Although the ombudsman's role is not to be a short-cut around normal administrative procedures, President Rizzini points out that "when the regular channels of communication in the Roger Williams College community seem inadequate or out of order, the ombudsman is there to repair them."

Alumni Nominations Sought

As President Rizzini has announced his resignation, effective in 1990, the Board of Trustees has appointed a Presidential Search Committee. Alumni Louis W. Gingerella, Jr., '75, is a member.

The committee seeks input from the alumni into the search process. Nominations for the position will be welcomed. To convey nominations, write Barbara Franklin, secretary to the Presidential Search Committee, Roger Williams College, Bristol, R.I. 02809.

Rhode Island Alumni Hold Kickoff Event

The Rhode Island Chapter of the Roger Williams College Alumni Association held its kickoff cocktail party at the Rhode Island Historical Society's Museum of Rhode Island History, located on Providence's East Side.

Over thirty alumni attended the event, and welcomed the new dean of the College, Dr. Malcolm H. Forbes, who spoke briefly with the group. The chapter's plans for future events — the first of which is a theatre party to Providence Performing Arts Center to see Cabaret starring Joel Grey — were discussed, as were upcoming campus events.

There are more than 3,200 Roger Williams alumni living in Rhode Island, and this chapter certainly has the potential for becoming a strong and active group. If you have not been receiving our mailings, or have suggestions for activities, contact the Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, Rhode Island (8209, 401-253-1010 (in-state), or 800-456-7144 toll free outside R.I.). (L.C.O.)

Charles Rizzini

"Ombudsman"

Is Swedish for "man of the people."

Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, Rhode Island.

Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, Rhode Island.

Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, Rhode Island.

Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, Rhode Island.
SPORTS

Soccer: Young Hawks Get Tough

After getting off to a slow start (1-7-1), the Roger Williams College men's soccer team rallied to post a 6-4 record for the second half of the season. Facing opponents like nationally ranked Salem State and NCAA Division II Stonehill College in the first three weeks of the 1988 season presented a definite challenge for the young Hawks.

With 11 freshmen on the 22-man roster, it was an exceptional recruiting year. Playing regularly were freshmen Darren Braidot (Northport, N.Y.), Nick Osgood (Marblehead, Mass.), and Mark Perotti (Hollpko, Mass.) as fullbacks; Matt Carroll (Fall River, Mass.), Rich Wrightson (Red Bank, N.J.), Colin Hynes (Haledon, Mass.), and Pablo Mirabal­les (Stamford, Conn.) in the midfield; Derek Taylor (Glastonbury, Conn.), and John Cucinotta (Needham, Mass.) up front, and James "Bart" Dean (South Berwick, Me.) starting in goal.

Second-year players Laird Anthony and Chris Bodstadt were both in the first 11. Laird played striker and "Bocks" moved up from the defense to control the center midfield with fourth year co-captain Tim Colbert. Rounding out the defense were seniors Chris Ferace (co-captain), Eric Powell, and junior Bjorn Dragbaek (co-captain). Gene Kennedy and Bill Ashcroft provided exceptional play offensively, along with senior Bruce Barth. Keith Ward saw time in the net as well.

First-year head coach Marcus Jannitto is the director of sports information, intramurals, and recreation at Roger Williams College.

Coach Marcus Jannitto

coached for four years at Barrington High School and two years at Salve Regina College. Jannitto is a graduate of Roger Williams College and holds a master's degree in education from Rhode Island College. He and his wife reside in Providence with their three children.

Sports Roundup

Under the direction of coach Eric Josephson '88, the sailing team won its home regatta, topping the five teams that traveled to Boston for the invitational event. The team also put in a strong showing at the Southern Series sailed at the Coast Guard Academy, placing fourth out of 12 teams. The golf team, meanwhile, faced a tough season, winning its individual match against Salve Regina, but not faring as well in tournament play. In women's volleyball, the team had a near-perfect 11-15 record going into the last match of the season. The team defeated tough opponents like Gordon, and most losses were hard-fought games. The women's tennis team ended up 3-4 for the season.

Roger Williams College graduates working in the performing arts in the Los Angeles area met recently with three faculty members. Pictured at the lobby of the U.S. Grant Hotel are (standing, left to right) John Walker '83, Peter Wright (faculty), Bill Grandage (faculty), Beth Argo (faculty); Garry Morris '76 (seated) Ginette Carpenter '86, Gina Clark '85. The group was attending the Association for Theatre in Higher Education Conference held in San Diego.

CLASS NOTES

1979

Representative Harold M. Metts won the Democratic nomination in the Rhode Island House of Representatives' House District 19, on the south side of Providence. He will run for a third term in office. Representative Metts also teaches business at the Nathanael Green Middle School in Providence, and has been the basketball coach at Central High School for the past ten years, winning two state championships. Metts holds a master's degree in education from Rhode Island College. He and his wife reside in Providence with their three children.

1974

James R. Champagne has been promoted to manager of training and development for the Titliest Division of the Acushnet Company in Fall River. He will be responsible for design, development, and performance-based training programs in operations, maintenance, and engineering. Champagne lives in Swansea with his wife Paulette and their daughter Amy.

1975

Frank Sylvester, a 22-year veteran of firefighting, is the new Lime Rock Fire Chief in Lincoln. R.I. Sylvester taught fire science for nine years at the Community College of Rhode Island, and had been a hazardous materials officer with the Coast Guard. In 1982, he was a security agent for vice president George Bush's summer residence in Maine.

James E. Johnson has assumed the reins as president of the Greater New Bedford Chapter of the International Management Council. Johnson is a senior industrial engineer in the Titliest Division of the Acushnet Company.

1976

Henry W. Konerko is president of Phelps Dodge Refining Corporation and Phelps Dodge Copper Products Company. Konerko has been with the firm since 1981; he has a master's degree in management from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

1978

James P. Discordia of Orlando, Fla., has been awarded a master's degree in business administration by Florida Institute of Technology. Melbouerse.

Discordia was also named a founding member of the National Society of Architectural Engineers in 1984. He is a construction project manager for the Aherthaw Construction Company in Orlando.

1972

Michael Hayes has been appointed to the Board of Directors of the Newport Savings and Loan Association. He owns and operates clothing stores on Bannister's Wharf and Bellevue Avenue in Newport. Hayes is also a Trustee of the Preservation Society of Newport County, a member of the Newport Health Care Corporation, Redwood Library, National Merchants Retail Association, and Newport Historical Society. He is married to the former Mary Jenkins and has two children.
Directory Update

Beginning in January, representatives from the Harris Publishing Company will be telephoning alumni to verify the information for the new Roger Williams College Alumni Directory. Information to be verified includes name, academic data, address, and phone number. The directory will include alphabetical listings, as well as listings organized by class year and geographical location.

You may reserve your personal copy when the Harris representative calls. This will be your only opportunity to buy the directory.

If you have not received the initial questionnaire, please contact the Alumni Office, Roger Williams College, Bristol, R.I., 02809. Tel 231-1040 (in-state) or 800-458-7144 (toll free outside R.I.)

1980

Dennis DiPinto has been hired by the Newport Police Department. DiPinto will join the patrol division once he completes field training. He was a member of the Hopkinton Police Force for two years while working as an auxiliary Newport officer from 1984 to 1986.

1983

Mark Johnson was recently featured in the Narragansett Times after achieving an outstanding batting average with the North Kingstown Mariners amateur baseball team. Johnson is batting .667 in the Ocean State League, and .550 in the Newport Sunset League. He has also racked up 19 RBIs in eight games while scoring 14 runs. Johnson and his wife Janine live in Newport with their son Ben.

Ronald T. Webster of Johnston, R.I., has been named recycling coordinator for the Town of Johnston. Webster was the town's anti-litter campaign coordinator.

1984

Judith Hanratty has been appointed family practice manager at Memorial Hospital of Rhode Island. She will be responsible for the daily organization of the hospital's Family Care Program, which provides quality patient care and family residency training. Hanratty will supervise staff, assist faculty and residents, and teach a practice management course. She has a master's degree in human services administration from New Hampshire College, and is also certified as a community health specialist by the American Nurses Association.

Margaret Stassa is working toward a master's degree in Providence, R.I. She played a part in the Queen of the production of Roger and Hammerstein's Cinderella, a musical version of the traditional fairy tale performed at the Cold Comfort Theatre in Castine, Me., last summer.

1986

Donna Meierdiercks, a member of Groundworks Dance Theatre, has been performing throughout New England. Groundworks combines dance, theatre, and mime with original music, poetry, and photography to create works described as "performance art." Meierdiercks has also helped choreograph Tat's Song (1987) which has been acclaimed by The Providence Journal as "startling and lovely."

Sgt. Jeffrey A. Brunelle was promoted to the rank of police lieutenant for the Lincoln, R.I., Police Force. Brunelle joined the force in 1972 and was promoted to sergeant in 1980.

1986

Heather Ahern, a member of Groundworks Dance Theatre, has been performing throughout New England combining dance, theatre, and mime with original music, poetry, and photography. Ahern has performed in numerous schools and colleges throughout New England.

Jeffrey O. Hayes has been promoted to design engineer and will serve as laboratory manager at KVH Industries in Middletown, R.I. Hayes will manage the lab personnel and oversee the scheduling of all product engineering and research and development work. He lives in Portsmouth with his wife and son.

1988

Norma Lee Rhines is an electrical engineer and project manager with United Electric Controls Company in Watertown, Mass. Rhines is also heading up the planning for a seniors center project of the Community Church of Watertown's 75th anniversary in 1992. She recently established perennial gardens circling the church. She is married to Reverend Frederick Rhines and has one son.

Christine La Scala of Stamford, Conn., has been accepted by the Peace Corps. Her address will be Peace Corps, P.O. Box 547, Herrastra, Solomon Islands.

Marriages

James Michael Nasser '75 to Ann Mildred Hackett, August 21, 1988

Robert Michael Bolten '79 to Christine Eleanor Whitty, May 14, 1988

Robert Dominic Delsandro, Jr. '81 to Mary Ann LaCroce, May 28, 1988

James Lloyd Allen '82 to Marguerite Mancieri, August 6, 1988

Michael T. Heston '82 to June A. Donovan, June 4, 1988

Robert John LeBlanc '82 to Hanne I. Hansen, July 2, 1988

Deborah Leigh Hahn '83 to Gerald Peter Murphy '85, July 1988

Gary Scott Berger '84 to Mary Roberta Gagnon, September 1988

Melissa Ann Charette '84 to Major Edward F. Polom, August 6, 1988

Ernest E. Quaglieri '84 to Taffy Lyn Simpson, August 14, 1988

Lori J. Balzano '85 to Richard Ferrera, September 3, 1988

Jane Welch '85 to John Alesopoulos, August 1988

Robert James Filloramo '86 to Amy Marie Beaulieu, June 11, 1988

Christine M. Panejinto '86 to Gilles Bard, August 6, 1988

Scott C. A. Taylor '86 to Sarah J. Graf '86, June 25, 1988

Kim A. Brown '87 to Joseph Fazio, August 1988

Charles C. Furtado '87 to Nichole E. Achille, August 1988

Laura Johnson '87 to Fred J. Charette, Jr., September 3, 1988

Francine Konieres '87 to Lawrence Ferguson, June 18, 1988

Deaths

Raymond H. Hastings '82 of Warwick, R.I., a lieutenant in the Providence Police Department Traffic Division for 18 years, died September 7, 1988. He leaves his wife, Athanasia, a son and daughter, and a brother, Robert K. Hastings of Warwick, a member of the Warwick Police Department.

Lori Ann Mahoney '83

Lori Ann Mahoney '83, of Greenwich, Conn., died this summer at the age of 26. Following is a letter written to The Abridged by her friend and classmate Lisa J. Gasneri '83.

On Tuesday, August 2, 1988, family and friends of Lori Ann Mahoney gathered together at St. Catherine's Church to share in one of the most difficult things they would ever be asked to do in their lifetimes — to say goodbye to a daughter, a sister, a very special friend.

I sat amidst this group in the coolness of that lovely church in Greenwich and I am certain that each person there wondered — Why? Why Lori? How can I say goodbye to her? When the music piano began a sense of calm and peace filled the church. The priest shared in Lori's favorite saying that "we cannot possess them. Rather they are ours to "borrow." To learn from and be grateful for the many. That jet black hair and her gorgeous green eyes. Her infectious laugh and smile. How can we possibly say goodbye? If someone like Lori has to depart from this crazy world far too early, then it is us, all of us, who will learn from this loss. We will remember Lori because she lived hot summer morning, or ever. These were people who cared for Lori and believed in Lori — who would simply not let her spirit die. It was quite clear after listening to certain individuals very close to Lori's life that she would long remain in our hearts and souls.

Her sister asked us to remember her because she was so strong and brave. Because she was considerate and forever concerned about others. Because she was a fighter and never complained. Her brother-in-law reminded all of us that she loved the color pink. She loved floppy socks and fine champagne. And she loved her red pair of leather cowboy boots. We all smiled.

Her uncle shared a story of how she touched him with her sense of humor even in her last week. He wanted so desperately to give her words of wisdom and encouragement one afternoon upon visiting her. They talked for awhile and instead it was Lori giving her uncle words of support and love and humor. He said he would never forget that. A close college friend shared a short poem that Lori had sent to her from Dallas a few years before. A poem of growing and learning. A poem of hope for tomorrow.

Every single word spoken of Lori shared a common thread which weaved its way through each passage or poem or memory. That Lori was a unique person. Every single word spoken of Lori shared a single common thread which weaved its way through each passage or poem or memory.
Nominations for Alumni Trustees:
You can have a direct impact on Roger Williams College's future development by nominating candidates to serve as alumni trustees on the College's Board of Trustees. Two Board vacancies, each for three-year terms, will become available in November. Deadline for submission of an application or nomination is December 31, 1988. Applications and nominations will be reviewed by the Membership Committee of the Board, and a ballot will be prepared for an alumni vote.

Nominees should possess the following minimum qualifications:

1. A willingness to:
   a. Commit the time and resources to attend meetings,
   b. Become actively involved with the support and development of the College, the Alumni Association, and the local alumni chapters, and
2. The ability to work productively in a group environment.

The names of qualified candidates should be submitted by December 31, 1988 to:
Membership Committee
c/o President’s Office
Roger Williams College
Bristol, Rhode Island 02809

ROGER WILLIAMS COLLEGE
Office of Alumni Relations
Bristol, Rhode Island 02809
401 253-1040

Application Form for Alumni Members to the Roger Williams College Board of Trustees

I wish to apply or to nominate a candidate for the position of Alumni Member to the Roger Williams College Board of Trustees

Nominee’s Name
Address
City/State/Zip
Business Title
Company Name
Address
City/State/Zip
Phone (home) (business)

Signature
Date

I consider myself or the nominee qualified to serve on the Board of Trustees for the following reasons:
Please describe yourself or the nominee. Use an additional sheet of paper if needed. List all Roger Williams College and alumni activities. List also social and civic organization memberships, and any other information you consider helpful to the candidacy. Resumes may be attached.

Please return the entire page, including your address label.