RWU Appoints Provost Andrew Workman as Interim President

While search for next university president will continue as planned, RWU Board of Trustees names Workman to serve as interim president

July 10, 2018 | Public Affairs

BRISTOL, R.I. – The Roger Williams University Board of Trustees has chosen Provost Andrew Workman to serve as interim president, filling the vacancy created by the death of President Donald J. Farish on July 5.

Workman joined RWU in July 2012 as provost and senior vice president of Academic Affairs. He has served as a key member of the senior administrative team, overseeing all academic affairs responsibilities for the University for the past six years.

Prior to RWU, Workman served 19 years at Mills College in Oakland, Calif., in a number of roles, including full-time faculty member, dean of social sciences, and vice provost for academic affairs. He holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy and social theory from New College of Florida, and both master's and doctoral degrees in history from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

The search for RWU's next president will continue as planned, following the same schedule that was anticipated when President Farish announced his plans to retire.
