

1-18-2011

Dean Logan's Blog: Keeping Up With Hala

Roger Williams University School of Law

Follow this and additional works at: https://docs.rwu.edu/law_pubs_blogs

Recommended Citation

Roger Williams University School of Law, "Dean Logan's Blog: Keeping Up With Hala" (2011). Law School Blogs. 179.
https://docs.rwu.edu/law_pubs_blogs/179

This Document is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Law Publications at DOCS@RWU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Law School Blogs by an authorized administrator of DOCS@RWU. For more information, please contact mwu@rwu.edu.

Dean Logan's Blog

Keeping Up With Hala

Posted by David Logan on 01/18/2011 at 09:24 AM

I am always glad to report fun news about our alums and today I want to provide an update on Hala Furst, who graduated last May (and who is a former Torts student of mine). Hala, who attended the University of Minnesota undergrad, was a member of our Honors Program, and who had a great run at the School of Law, including success as a moot court advocate (not surprising given her background in theater); she even had an essay published in another law school's law review.

The latest on Hala: by special arrangement, she was recently sworn in to the Massachusetts bar by a federal judge in her homestate of Kansas, and not just by any judge: Wesley Brown, appointed to the federal bench by President John F. Kennedy is, at 103, the oldest living federal judge, and he still hears cases! All this was arranged by Hala's mom, an Assistant U.S. Attorney back in Kansas. Below are some pics from that important day and we wish Hala well, as she is back in DC at her post of Presidential Management Fellow at the Department of Homeland Security in Washington, D.C.

Way to go Hala!

