Integrating Doctrine and Diversity Speaker Series

The Rule of Law In Crisis: Talking About Core Legal Values, Human Rights, and Current Events in US Law School Classes

This event features law student correspondents for JURIST from Ukraine and Myanmar discussing their experiences reporting on ongoing fundamental challenges to the rule of law in those countries. Two professors will join the conversation to discuss ways in which rule of law values, human rights issues and real-time legal news can be woven into US law school classes. Finally, a member of JURIST's professional staff will discuss the work JURIST is doing as its volunteer team of over 100 law student reporters, editors and correspondents from 50 law schools in the US and 25 other countries collaborate to cover the rule of law in crisis at home and abroad.
