A NOTE
ABOUT THE AUCTION

Friends,

Thank you for supporting the 2010 Public Interest Law Auction. This event is managed entirely by students, overseen by the Feinstein Institute for Legal Service, and sponsored by the Law School’s Association for Public Interest Law (APIL) and the Student Bar Association.

Auction proceeds support law students who work in important, volunteer legal internships serving the disenfranchised, underrepresented populations across Rhode Island and Southeastern Massachusetts. With the twenty-eight Summer Public Interest stipends funded by the Auction proceeds last year, Roger Williams law students were able to work with many public interest organizations.

- International Institute of Rhode Island
- Rhode Island Legal Services
- Rhode Island Office of the Child Advocate
- Rhode Island Public Defender’s Office
- Save the Bay
- South Coastal Counties Legal Services

As you think about bidding on the many wonderful Auction items that have been donated by law school supporters, please be as generous as possible. Your attendance tonight, your purchase of raffle tickets, and your enthusiastic bidding are enabling us to support life-changing legal work.

The items donated tonight have come from the surrounding business and artist communities, as well as our own students, professors, staff, and administration at the law school. Enjoy the evening!

Thank you again for your support,

Best wishes and good luck,
The 2010 Public Interest Auction Committee
