In Memoriam

Dean George J. Douglas

... Then the God took consuming fire from the furnace of anger, and searing wind from the desert of ignorance, and sharp-cutting sands from the shore of selfishness, and coarse earth from under the feet of ages, and combined them all and fashioned Man. He gave to Man a blind power that rages and drives him into a madness which extinguishes only before gratification of desire, and placed life in him which is the specter of death ...

Gibran
From The Editor

The buildings you see and the ground on which you walk are part of a dream come true. It began many years ago with the vision and aspirations of many people it has become a reality of sorts. True, the construction work is not yet completed, though, the building has been delayed. Despite this set back classes will start on the 29th of this month. An unpainted wall or a half carpeted floor, will not deter a student from receiving an education.

A new freshman class will hold the distinction of being the first graduating class of the Bristol campus. These young men and women find it a challenge to pass through even disappointments as they pass through four years to graduation and Bachelor degrees. They will be in constant touch with everything and everyone around them who will be striving to put this campus on the map; one of these striving forces will be the THE QUILL.

The Quill is open to any member of the student body who feels that they have ideas or abilities to offer. In the past this newspaper has had trouble securing an adequate staff. Now however, with the college beginning anew, it is hoped that there will be no more of these well-meaning, but amongst the students. It seems quite ridiculous for you, the student, to finance a publication, and then not give a damn where it goes from there. This true fact is you can survive without a newspaper, but the newspaper can't survive without you.

The opening days of school will find many notices as to how to contact Bill Bradford, Providence Editor, Bob Leaver, Bristol News Editor, or myself. Also that you can drop in at regular times and date of an open meeting for all students interested in writing for the Quill. Please come and see us. You will have an opportunity to pitch in and find a feeling of pride in what you do for the newspaper and, more important, for the college.

Have a suggestion—TELL US! Need some advice—ASK US! Found a good story—CALL US! In any event let me, as Editor at Bristol, tell you where to go (in plain English), ... first, to the Quill and then????

ROBERT N. WALDMAN
Editor—Bristol

Welcome Frosh

I wish to extend my hearty wel¬ come to all the new and returning
students as we begin one of the most exciting years in the Col¬ lege's history.

With so much that is new, a current of nervousness seems to accompany the excitement we feel. It is quite natural. This is all during very lively times. But little nervousness can keep everyone on their toes. Things should be done about this or that, it seems as if everything is happening at once. Let's get both campuses together and see us. You will be more than welcomed to take part in the activities and see us. You will be more than welcomed to are happily allowed by the advice—ASK US!

To all the students who have been with us a long time. To all the students who are new here. Let's get both campuses together and have a good time.

As some 1500 students prepare to implant themselves on the new campus and activities, there are probably many thoughts as to where and what to do in your free time. The following is an attempt to like extend some thoughts on what's happening in Bristol:

PLACID MEAL CHEAP MEAL CHEAP

The Wagon Wheel located at 350 Hope Ave. and The Stone Wheel at 1205 Center St. are located on Route 136. Warren, Serving Italian and American food. Good place to take a break.

Bristol Motor Lodge on Route 136 (1 mile from campus) peasants. Jazz into the night is participation, night is participation, right.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I am hoping a very strong pro¬ test on behalf of the many veter¬ ans now attending R.W. Mor¬
t. These veterans are struggling to better themselves in this "Cold World" and many feel like myself, I know what the situation is. It has recently come to my attention that the veterans, un¬ less disabled, are not allowed to charge their books at the "Ocular," our bookstore, on our campus. Disabled veterans are happily allowed by the ad¬ administration to charge anything and everything, because they have a guaranteed income directed to the school from the V.A.

The Bristol campus of Roger Williams College has a new look. This new look is, of course, re¬ flecting the design of the campus and nature of our buildings. But a college is not made of buildings alone. The college is made of people, students and faculty. Our faculty is eager to help you get to the bottom of your numerous calls to my office, I expect that we have a great many questions as well as answers.

Newness is also reflected in our organizational structure. At present there is an Undergraduate Student Affairs is awaiting sev¬ en student representatives. The number of voting student mem¬ bers on this committee will be equal to that of the faculty repre¬ sentatives. So here, too, we see something new — namely, a heavy responsibility given to students on the major committee affecting student life.

In the area of student activities, we have little structure at present. This affects interested stu¬ dents who, in turn, form their own clubs, organizations and activities under the aegis of the student council. The council is defining its role and responsibility.

Often a collegiate experience can be most impersonal. We at Roger Williams are trying to avoid this from occurring on our campus. This is one of the reasons for our faculty advisor system. In ad¬ dition, the Office of the Dean of Students has employed two full¬ time counselors who are available to all of our students seeking help with their personal, social areas of life. In addition to their academic, vocational, and personal counseling, these counselors are available to all of our students seeking help with their personal, social areas of life. These counselors are your first line of defense.

As our returning students know, I am coming to the College, having just returned from a year's for¬ mally the Bristol Country Club) on Trenhol Road, off Route 136. For those of you who have not yet arrived, let's talk over the days problems and listen to an excellent Jazz organ¬ ization.

Bristol Motor Lodge on Route 136 (1 mile from campus) peasants. Jazz into the night is participation, night is participation, right.

Welcome Frosh

I wish to extend my hearty wel¬ come to all the new and returning
students as we begin one of the most exciting years in the Col¬ lege's history.

With so much that is new, a current of nervousness seems to accompany the excitement we feel. It is quite natural. This is all during very lively times. But little nervousness can keep everyone on their toes. Things should be done about this or that, it seems as if everything is happening at once. Let's get both campuses together and have a good time.
By JIM BECK
Ann Arbor, Mich. — (CPR) — Ken Kelley, editor of the underground newspaper Ann Arbor, has been arrested and is charged with distributing obscene material.

In a related event, a radical black of senior editors of the Michigan Daily, student newspaper at the University of Michigan, failed to win the support of the others when he suggested that the Argus, the university newspaper, could be turned into a forum for political ramifications not only for the current legal cases, but of the vague and extremely broad old obscenity laws that exist and that any publication can be accused of "chains of prurient interests or sex," he explained.

When it was suggested that Kelley might get a fair trial, Stickgold, who was a member of the radicalized lawyer replied, "Well, no, this is Wauwatosa County's baby, and they're going to have to take it." But Stickgold soberly admits a very important legal decision may come out of this judicial vendetta. Few officials have begun to find out if the picture appeared to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

There is little chance Kelley will go to jail. It has become progressively difficult to prove obscenity since the 1966 Hany Hill case when the Supreme Court ruled that obscenity is without any redeeming social or political worth and appeals only to the prurient interests of sex. But what does appear to be a concerted effort on the part of the Ann Arbor radical community to turn the papers into a forum for political satire.

Kelley's head legal counsel is former dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School, district attorney in Milwaukee, and president of the Milwaukee Lawyers' Guild. Marc Stickgold is also an earlier assistant district attorney.

Kelley contends, "that they have made it abundantly clear since our start six months ago," and has announced he will "turn this into the political trial it is and won't charge Kelley a cent.

Stickgold announced at a news conference that "all the people in Ann Arbor who are in power should be ready to testify" and added "and their wives." This is the only way to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

Even though police harassment of establishments carrying the Ar- guas has taken it off many news stands, the circulation continues to grow, nearing 20,000 per issue. Before the arrest the paper had planned to become a weekly, but Kelley says that will probably be set until after the case is settled.

Now out on $1,000 bail that was quickly pinned from large personal donations from university faculty members, Kelley is rounding up support for demonstrations during the trials, scheduled to begin Oct. 10.

That is settled. The state prosecuting Kelley is the City Councilman James Stickgold announced at a news conference that "all the people in Ann Arbor who are in power should be ready to testify" and added "and their wives." This is the only way to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

When it was suggested that Kelley might get a fair trial, Stickgold, who was a member of the radicalized lawyer replied, "Well, no, this is Wauwatosa County's baby, and they're going to have to take it." But Stickgold soberly admits a very important legal decision may come out of this judicial vendetta. Few officials have begun to find out if the picture appeared to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

There is little chance Kelley will go to jail. It has become progressively difficult to prove obscenity since the 1966 Hany Hill case when the Supreme Court ruled that obscenity is without any redeeming social or political worth and appeals only to the prurient interests of sex. But what does appear to be a concerted effort on the part of the Ann Arbor radical community to turn the papers into a forum for political satire.

Kelley's head legal counsel is former dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School, district attorney in Milwaukee, and president of the Milwaukee Lawyers' Guild. Marc Stickgold is also an earlier assistant district attorney.

Kelley contends, "that they have made it abundantly clear since our start six months ago," and has announced he will "turn this into the political trial it is and won't charge Kelley a cent.

Stickgold announced at a news conference that "all the people in Ann Arbor who are in power should be ready to testify" and added "and their wives." This is the only way to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

Even though police harassment of establishments carrying the Ar- guas has taken it off many news stands, the circulation continues to grow, nearing 20,000 per issue. Before the arrest the paper had planned to become a weekly, but Kelley says that will probably be set until after the case is settled.

Now out on $1,000 bail that was quickly pinned from large personal donations from university faculty members, Kelley is rounding up support for demonstrations during the trials, scheduled to begin Oct. 10.

That is settled. The state prosecuting Kelley is the City Councilman James Stickgold announced at a news conference that "all the people in Ann Arbor who are in power should be ready to testify" and added "and their wives." This is the only way to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

When it was suggested that Kelley might get a fair trial, Stickgold, who was a member of the radicalized lawyer replied, "Well, no, this is Wauwatosa County's baby, and they're going to have to take it." But Stickgold soberly admits a very important legal decision may come out of this judicial vendetta. Few officials have begun to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

There is little chance Kelley will go to jail. It has become progressively difficult to prove obscenity since the 1966 Hany Hill case when the Supreme Court ruled that obscenity is without any redeeming social or political worth and appeals only to the prurient interests of sex. But what does appear to be a concerted effort on the part of the Ann Arbor radical community to turn the papers into a forum for political satire.

Kelley's head legal counsel is former dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School, district attorney in Milwaukee, and president of the Milwaukee Lawyers' Guild. Marc Stickgold is also an earlier assistant district attorney.

Kelley contends, "that they have made it abundantly clear since our start six months ago," and has announced he will "turn this into the political trial it is and won't charge Kelley a cent.

Stickgold announced at a news conference that "all the people in Ann Arbor who are in power should be ready to testify" and added "and their wives." This is the only way to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

Even though police harassment of establishments carrying the Ar- guas has taken it off many news stands, the circulation continues to grow, nearing 20,000 per issue. Before the arrest the paper had planned to become a weekly, but Kelley says that will probably be set until after the case is settled.

Now out on $1,000 bail that was quickly pinned from large personal donations from university faculty members, Kelley is rounding up support for demonstrations during the trials, scheduled to begin Oct. 10.

That is settled. The state prosecuting Kelley is the City Councilman James Stickgold announced at a news conference that "all the people in Ann Arbor who are in power should be ready to testify" and added "and their wives." This is the only way to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

When it was suggested that Kelley might get a fair trial, Stickgold, who was a member of the radicalized lawyer replied, "Well, no, this is Wauwatosa County's baby, and they're going to have to take it." But Stickgold soberly admits a very important legal decision may come out of this judicial vendetta. Few officials have begun to find out if the picture appealed to the prurient interests of sex, he explained.

There is little chance Kelley will go to jail. It has become progressively difficult to prove obscenity since the 1966 Hany Hill case when the Supreme Court ruled that obscenity is without any redeeming social or political worth and appeals only to the prurient interests of sex. But what does appear to be a concerted effort on the part of the Ann Arbor radical community to turn the papers into a forum for political satire.

Kelley's head legal counsel is former dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School, district attorney in Milwaukee, and president of the Milwaukee Lawyers' Guild. Marc Stickgold is also an earlier assistant district attorney.
Demonstration Planned For Providence

"In Providence on October fourth, there will be a large demonstration against the Vietnam war. The demonstration is being sponsored by a number of local groups. These include: Providence Corporation, New University Conference, Student Mobilization Committee, Committee of Returned Volunteers, Peace and Freedom Movement, R.I. Grape Boycott, R.I. GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace, Young Socialist Alliance, R.C. B.D. and Clergy and Laymen Concerned."

On October fourth, demonstrators will congregate at Kennedy Plaza at 1:00 p.m. and march to the state house. At the state house, there will be a rally with speakers. A tentative list of speakers has been drawn up featuring Ex-Pet Juan Puig of the Fort Jackson S. J. Jack Russell of the New University Conference and Charles Fortes of the Providence Corporation.

"The demonstration will call for the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam and for black control of the black community."

Saint Louis President Speaks Out

St. Louis, Mo. (L.P.) — Father Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of St. Louis University, believes it is essential that avenues of communications on college campuses be kept open if solutions for the current discontent are to be found. At institutions of higher learning in this country, where such a policy has not prevailed, campuses have been torn apart, he emphasized.

The noted Catholic educational leader said that at St. Louis University and Washington University, communication lines have been kept open to all, and observed that "a spirit of cooperation" exists that has been renewed and furnished themselves.

The second class of day students will even have come to an end before the Roger Williams College theatre program is up on its feet, facing the challenge of a theatre season that already holds much excitement in store for the entire campus.

On Tuesday afternoon, September 30, at 4:00 p.m. the Drama Club is holding its reception for new students in Room #1 of the classroom building. All students interested in the theatre are invited to attend and St. Louis drama director for the theatre program will discuss the future of theatre at Roger Williams, as well as announcing plans for an immediate production of a full-length play. Elaborate lighting equipment, scenic supplies and makeup have been arriving throughout the summer. They will be put to immediate use through a series of lecture-demonstrations which will be announced at Tuesday’s meeting.

PROVIDENCE - BRISTOL

"Let’s All Get Together... And Love One Another Right Now"

Provided by the above exists in Bristol and not in Providence.
Student Body, Welcome

Believe it or not, it is that "Ever so lucky" time of the year again. Yes, there will be school this year and when the carpenters' vacation ends there will be a completed new campus. On behalf of the Student Government of Roger Williams College, I would like to welcome everyone to the 1969-70 school year. This new year brings with it hopes, dreams and unusual problems.

Student Misconduct

Ames, Iowa — (I.P.) — Iowa State College, attempting to keep pace with current student conduct judicial views, has revised the terminology of the Chart, according to Dr. Donald Boles, legal advisor to the Vice-President of Student Affairs Office. Dr. Boles, whose advisory post was created last year to cope with recent court rulings on student conduct, said, "I think it is important for students to realize that the laws concerning student misconduct have been changed and that Iowa State understands these changes. This University understands that students have certain legal obligations and rights in society."

Last year, the U.S. District Court for western Wisconsin ruled that a vague conduct rule at the University of Wisconsin, was unconstitutional. The Court stated that the undefined term, "misconduct," was used as grounds for expulsion, violated the Fourteenth Amendment which guarantees due process of the law.

The recently adopted University of Iowa's code of student conduct, stated in legal terminology, attempted to fit the court's prescribed standard of "reasonably definite and narrow rules of conduct."

Attention: Providence Students

TONY'S SNACK BAR

Needs a Student to Work

12-4 Daily

Contact Tony in the Basement

Student Center

ALAN BORGES

Class of '70

N. Y. LIFE INS.

401 - 521-2200

Looking For a Place to Go?

Down to the Wharf at

THE WAGON WHEEL

DANCE NIGHTLY (except Monday) TO LIVE MUSIC

at the Fun For The Young Spot

in Bristol on

THAMES STREET, BRISTOL, R. I.

---

THAMES STREET, BRISTOL, R.I.

---

Youth Fare Stays, But Will Be Reduced

By RICK PITCH

WASHINGTON — (CPS) — Airline youth fares will continue, but not at the current half-price discount.

The five-man Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) decided here this month that while the fares, which enable persons 12-21 to fly standby at low cost, were fair in principle, airlines should be allowed to raise them to 60 percent of the regular coach fare.

The reason: steep wage settlements, more expensive fuel, and higher landing fees have lowered airline profits excessively, according to the CAB, and price increases in both regular and promotional discounts are necessary to increase revenues. The major carrier offering special youth fares — American, Continental, Northwest, TWA, United, Eastern, and Western — are expected to take advantage of the CAB ruling and raise their prices.

The new rate will take effect Oct. 1. A CAB spokesman said further hearings will be held on the "economic" of the discount rate as soon as a court case brought by Trailways Bus Systems against the CAB is settled. Trailways contends it is discriminatory for there to be any discounts for youth at all, since adults must pay full fare.

The youth fare issue was forced to a head last January when several bus companies, all of which had lost business to the airlines on account of the fares, filed suit to make the CAB listen to their arguments that the discounts were illegal.

The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, agreeing with some of the arguments, ordered the CAB to investigate, and CAB examiner Arthur S. Present subsequently found the fares to be "unjustly discriminatory" in violation of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958.

Present recommended the fares be abolished, but the CAB delayed reflecting action when protest was registered by the National Student Association, the Campus Americans for Democratic Action, the National Student Marketing Corporation, and many students and parents who deluged CAB offices with letters.

Three measures were introduced in Congress in support of the low-cost youth fares.

In its recent decision, the CAB concluded, contrary to Present's earlier findings, that the fares were not discriminatory, but benefitted all travelers. By engendering development of a new market they "have contributed similarly to making modern equipment and convenient schedules more broadly available," the CAB said.

"It is clear that the youth standby fares have generated a "amount of new traffic," it said. "The 12-22 years age groups are more responsive to the price than the market as a whole. Moreover, in addition to the short-run generative effect of youth fares, the longterm traffic impact also is significant. By encouraging persons to travel by air at an early age the fares will inculcate habits..." which will be reflected in a "ready acceptance of air travel throughout their adult lives."

---

FOLLOW THE

HAWS

THROUGH THE QUILL

---
ORIENTATION WEEKEND
BRISTOL and PROVIDENCE
CAMPUS COMBINED

Thursday, September 25
7:30 P.M.
MOVIE
"Loneliness Of The Long Distance Runner"
Place: Large Lecture Hall

Friday, September 26
7:30 P.M.
Informal Student Convocation
Place: Large Tent on Campus

ALL EVENTS FREE!
Sponsored by Student Government

Saturday, September 27
11:00 A.M.
STUDENT BODY COOK OUT
FREE: Hot Dogs - Hamburgers Beer & Soda
Place: Front Lawn on Campus
Music by THE WOLF PACK
7:30 P.M.
TENT DANCE
FREE Hot Dogs - Hamburgers Beer & Soda
Place: The Tent
ALL Students, Faculty Administration and Staff Welcome

By REDY MAXA
WASHINGTON — (CBS) — What the popular folk group Peter, Paul and Mary sings about in its song "The Great Mandella," parallels the recent experiences of a Washington, D.C.-based sailor who faces a possible 35-year prison sentence for publishing an anti-war newsletter.

Peter Lee Priest, 25, a native Texan, is the main character in a much-publicized case involving the Navy, the D.C. Department of Senation, and those organizations which attempt to bring public indignation to bear on cases involving freedom of speech and press.

Priest began the publication last April (while stationed at the Pentagon). His newsletter is called "C.O.L.-The Serviceman's Newsletter," an anti-war, anti-military publication which claimed a circulation of 1,000 by its second issue. Near the end of June, the Navy filed official charges against Seaman Priest. On August 28 a general court-martial was ordered.

Priest is accused of: selecting members of the military forces to desert and commit sedition (concerning revolts or violence against the government with intent to cause its overthrow); publishing statements which were designed to promote disloyalty and disaffection among members of the U.S. armed forces; and publishing statements urging insubordination, disloyalty, and refusal of duty by members of the military with intent to impair loyalty and discipline. In response to all this, Priest, a journalism graduate of the University of Houston, contends: "If I can be put away for a number of years in prison for the mere writing of words—an act so basic to the founding of this country that it finds its roots in the First Amendment to the Constitution—then my crime is speech."

And Priest's lawyer, David Rebo, seems to view the situation in the light: "We're left with are the real free speech issue."

Meanwhile, the case has had repercussions within the Washington Department of Sentation. Robert R. Howard, a special agent for the Office of Naval Intelligence, testified at a preliminary hearing late in July that the sentation department made a "special pickup" of trash at Priest's Washington apartment. A letter found in the sailor's trash was introduced as evidence in the investigation. While the head of the sentation department, William Roeder, acknowledged such cooperation with police, a subsequent oul by the mayor for an investigation brought a denial of his original statement from Roeder.

The case began to reach the ears of the public. At a concert in Washington this month, Peter Yarrow of the Peter, Paul and Mary group dedicated "The Great Mandella," an anti-military song to Priest and commented that "this man exemplifies what we're trying to say in this song. This man may be jailed for 55 years for saying the same things a candidate for president of the United States (Gene McCarthy) said last year. For saying the same thing many newspapers and Americans have been saying for years."

"But for some reason the fact that he is in the military means he no longer has the right to hold these opinions and express them. This kind of thing just has to be stopped. We're not trying to destroy America; we're just trying to save what is good about it. And that means saying things like "Roger Priest from the injustices perpetuated by the military; how it's just his life we're talking about—35 years."

Reprints of some stories related to the case were distributed with the message: "Write your Senator and Congressmen and urge them to support John H. Chafee, Secretary of the Navy." As the investigation proceeds, Priest's off-duty actions have not been restricted, although he reports extensive surveillance.

Serviceman Publisher To Be Court-Martialed
Toll the joller not to bother with his meal of brood and water today. He is fasting till the killing's over .
He can't do it; he can't change it.
It's been going on for 10,000 years.
Tell the people they are safe now.
Hunger stopped him; he lies still in his cell.
Death has gagged his aspirations . . .
Peter Yarrow

FIRST BRISTOL SHOWING
"THE LONELINESS OF THE LONG DISTANCE RUNNER"
Come, the borstal boy batt le himself and the outside world—lower class England.
Thursday, Sept. 25th 7:30 P.M.
ROOM 1
LARGE LECTURE BUILDING
Admission Is Free

PONTIACS
JEEPS
USED CARS
Come in and See

MARC H. ROSENBERG
CLASS OF 1970
AT STEINGOLD PONTIAC
766 Broadway, Pawtucket, R. I.
723-4700