New Coop Ed. For Business Students
Lawrence O'Donnell, newly named director of Business Cooperative Education, announced that after a year of planning and development the Business Administration Department has a Cooperative Education Program. Mr. O'Donnell is inviting any business student who is interested in Cooperative Education to meet with him in Room A-1 on December 17, at 11:30 a.m. In this program, the student will have the opportunity to obtain gainful employment in an industrial or commercial position that will give him experience in his chosen field of study. As the student enters the Cooperative Education Program, he will alternate field experience seminars with academic seminars.

The employment opportunities will be ferreted out by the government and student senate of the campus, still dealt with legal, medical, social and psychological aspects of involvement with drugs. There will be no admission charge for the discussion sessions and the public is cordially invited to attend. More information on Bristol page.
The administration's failure to hire a library associate to aid the present full-time librarian, Sherrie Friedman, is preventing students and faculty from receiving superior library service. The students are entitled to quality library service and they cannot obtain it with a library staff of one.
Mr. Zannini, Dean of Professional Studies on the Providence campus refuses to give the library an associate. He has been looking into the matter since last summer and isn't sure that the library needs one. Funds were set aside last year for an assistant, however, permission to hire one at that time was denied. The funds were put into another part of the library budget. There can be no excuse that there just isn't any money because the funds are still there. The work load from the Providence library is falling extensively behind. There are several hundred pages gathering up from instructors and there is a backlog of new books to be ordered. In addition, every time Mrs. Friedman must leave the library, there is no reference help available to students and very often they leave the library because they are not aware that the help is there. The library in Providence serves only 200 students LBSH than the Bristol campus library. There are eleven full-time paid staff in Bristol. The Providence library staff total is ONE. Both Mr. Moses and Mrs. Friedman foresee the need for a staff of three for the Providence library including a library associate and a clerk.

In addition, Mrs. Friedman has four work-study students available to work in the library at various times during the week. Although they are aware of library procedures, they are not trained nor equipped to handle student needs when they arise.

Mr. Moses analogizes the Providence library to that of a "fire station." Even though there may have been just one fire during the year for that particular fire station to put out, the basic component of people still remain there nevertheless.

As head of the libraries for both campuses, Mr. Moses does not have authority to hire an assistant librarian. This power lies directly with Dean Zannini.

Drug Seminar Announced
"Drugs: Rome Do Them Good, Scene Do Them Bad" will be the topic of a series of four seminars this month at part of the college's 1970-1971 Creative Writers Series. On Dec. 7, critic and short story writer Stephen Minot will visit the Bristol campus of Roger Williams College. The seminars, sponsored cooperatively by the dramaturgy and student senate of the campus, still deal with legal, medical, social and psychological aspects of involvement with drugs. There will be no admission charge for the discussion sessions and the public is cordially invited to attend. More information on Bristol page.

Mind Blowing Visitors

On Friday, December 4, the Providence campus was "trendy" by the Caravan. This group of young people originating from San Francisco on a cross country tour, have been staying at Burnside State Park. There are about twelve people traveling together. A has carrying eight people, was in Providence. Over four hours the group was with a very attentive audience. They believe that God is their spirit and that truth is the ultimate "high." In response to a question from the audience concerning marriage, they explained that the traditional view of marriage is not necessarily the best form of marriage. What is important is that the people live together as one and make a true commitment "not to split when the shit gets heavy."

They are completely vegetarian and do not eat dairy products. They do not send their children to school. Most of the children are pre-schoolers.

The spiritual leader Stephen holds Monday night classes with the family, similar to an encounter group whereby all haskies are brought in and broken down.

They make their own clothes and take on odd jobs as they travel across country in order to pay for food, gas and upkeep of their buses.

The concert to which the public is cordially invited, will begin at 8:15 p.m.

The Bristol Chamber Players, who have performed at colleges throughout New England, are all members of the Roger Williams College faculty. They include Mikhail Malish, violin, Mary Baldt, viola; and Anthony Melas, piano.

Not too many people know
But it was in the news
America killed Charlie today.
Just one young man.
With three old ages.
And now he has none.
Charlie never did have
Any friends in the matter—
No reason to go
No way to say no.

The Army took him.
And I can't help him smile
And sent him away.
We let him go
We waved as he drove
And we killed him.

Generation Gap Showing

The results of a recent questionnaire, completed by 147 students in Mrs. Walker's Sociology class and 35 parents showed clearly the existence of a generation gap between students and their parents.

Directed toward assessing attitudes, beliefs, and behavior on the part of students and their parents, the questionnaire elicited a differential ranging from 62 to 27 percentage points. 80% of the students felt that parents' rules on sex and marriage were excessively rigid; only 12% of the students felt the same way. 95% of the parents felt that premarital sex was morally wrong; only 19% of the students agreed.

Totally opposed to marijuana were 97% of the parents, 94% of the students. 95% of the students said that everyone should obey the law no matter how much they might disagree with it. 67% of the students did not agree with this statement.

Rock music is enjoyed by 95% of the students but only 24% of the parents shared this enjoyment.

The sight of a black and white couple was upsetting to 83% of the parents, 33% of the students. Only on the issue of Vietnam did the gap close. 85% of the parents and 84% of the students agreed that the U.S. should get out of Vietnam.

Providence Dorm: "Wuthering Heights"

by Ray Maker

On Nov. 15, 1970 a meeting was held with the dorm students of the Providence Campus. At this meeting were the following students: Joe Reid, Chuck Parson, Peter Paglia, Monte Ferrer, Joe Lauro, Joe Rodriguez, Thomas Leeds, Harry Grondal, Bruce Paddy, Eric Vanderwe, Mike Golas and Ron Levine. All together there were 27 Roger Williams Students in Crown Hall.

The Roger Williams Students are located in the sixth floor of the once condemned Hotel. To get to their floor, I had to walk up one flight of stairs and upon reaching the next floor I then took the elevator to the sixth floor. After reaching the sixth floor I then entered one of the rooms where I was met by a group of Roger Williams Students. The first thing I noticed was a huge crack in the wall. I later found out this was one of the better rooms. I was then given a guided tour of their floor. Some of the features of their rooms were huge cracks and holes in the walls (which had to be repaired by Roger Williams students at their own expense). The lighting in many of the rooms was not very good. The lighting in the halls on the sixth floor was very poor, one of the rooms remarked: "It is so dark up here you could get raped." Then we started to talk about the conditions of the Crown Dorm.

The following are views of the dorm students. "They should have a ghetto survival kit when you enter this place. It was a whore home at one time and it should have stayed one. The RWC Students are fingered for any trouble caused in the dorm and damages done. Sniper times are all off because Roger Williams Classes run to six o'clock and Johnson & Wales classes to four o'clock. We want a prosecutor from Roger Williams on our floor, not Johnson & Wales professors. We want our own dorm, because Roger Williams Students are always being looked down on because they are from Roger Williams College. Blacks are always getting there way because the proctor are scared of them. "If you get caught on the girls floor we are kicked out of the dorm for good." "Providence is dead, you would never know it's a state capital." It's a big down Man." "Big eye or Big Brother watching our every move (T.V.)."

Later we went over the general condition of the dorm. When they arrived at the dorm in Sept. they found their rooms with one bed, one dresser and no lights in some of the rooms. Some of the time the lights short out when they turn them on. I was also told that 24 of the 27 Boys underground are moving out. Two are moving to Bristol, one got drafted and the rest are getting their own apartments.

"Big Brother is watching every move."

Vandals Hit Campus

Acts of vandalism hit the Providence Campus over the weekend of November 20th. On Friday night a car was stolen from an evening division student from the Park Street Parking Lot during a severe rainstorm. Although an all-campus police force was on duty the incident could not be prevented.

Need Help!

On Thursday, November 19th the Collegiate Accounting Association met in Room A-13. The Association discussed the idea of tutoring all students who needed help in Accounting. It was unanimously decided that a questionnaire should be sent to all accounting teachers and that by word of mouth and the Quill the message about a speed spread through school declaring that the members of the "CAA" will try to train students on the school's ability to rid RWC of Accounting problems forever! We hope this is only a step and not to attempt to assist students in this way. Have an accounting problem? Don't see your professor, come to us.

New Life is Coming

A representative of Mutual Life Insurance of New York will be on the Providence Campus on Monday, December 7th. An interview sessions concerning part-time work with the Company while they are on campus. The possibilities of post - graduate work with the Company will also be discussed.

Bristol Commuters Get It Together

On Friday, November 29th, something happened on the Bristol campus as commuting students got together for the first time this fall. The party started out subdued, covered some free beer, chips, and cake, and ended with a lot of noise from a Bristol student. The event was an incredible success with over four hundred people in attendance.

Volunteers for a steering committee for commuters were re-elected and more than fifty students put their names on the list. We intend to form a commuters association and try to find funds for Student Senate to stage future activities, social events, etc.

Before an enthusiastic gallery made up of 120 students, the Hawks captured their second straight win this season, defeating the Tom Bannorenes 3-2 with goals by Horton and John Fiore. After both teams registered the evening’s first two goals, Horton broke away from Rick Nye to further the team’s second lead. The last two minutes of the game were marked with minor penalties, but the Hawks’ defense held steady, allowing them to score his first goal of the game.

The second session opened with basically the same strategy from both teams. With no score yet, the Tom Bannorenes took the puck rocking into the Hawks’ end for the first tally of the game.

The first few moments saw the Tom Bannorenes with the upper hand, as Horton and John Fiore took the puck down the ice. Just 51 seconds after the previous score the Hawks gave their stripped penalty the defense for the third period. After a debatable call on a Tom Bannorene’s scoring opportunity, moments later the Hawks took the puck down the ice, and the Tom Bannorenes were penalized once again, resulting in a two-on-one advantage to the Hawks. Steve J·egistered the Tom Bannorenes’ second goal of the game, followed by John Fiore’s goal.

The final score of the game was registered at 2:10 Bob Jackson and Mark Gennirer filtered through the Tom Bannorenes’ defense and made a long scoring shot to take the lead. The Hawks retired at the end of the game with a 42-27 lead.

The Tom Bannorenes took the game from the first period, with much aggression and a score now 7-3, and looking very much in favor of a foment作用 toward scoring. Bob Johnson connected on a pass from Rick Nye to further the start of the victory.

Once again the Tom Bannorenes had the puck and the game’s score was 1-0, but what later proved to be the winning tally.

The next seven minutes of the game were marked with minor penalties and a number of key body checks for both teams. With the Tom Bannorenes’ third penalty, just 2:27 remaining in the first session, Tad Scaf demonstrated a timely combination pass from Bob Jack­son, and Rick Johnson, Mark Gennirer, and John Fiore filtered the posts for the team’s second registered goal.
