The arrival of President Richard Nixon to the Newport Naval Base brought to Newport three factions of American society: the clergy, the union workers and the youths. Marred by only one incident, the demonstrations were generally peaceful in nature. Approximately thirty students from Roger Williams College attended.

One minor disturbance resulted when a portrait of Mao Tsetung carried by some youths was ripped to shreds by some hard hats. A few punches were thrown, but the form of Newport police, directly on top of the situation, immediately surpassed the incident. The hard hats then proceeded to burn a Viet Cong flag which they had secured from the youths.

At 11:00 a.m. at the entrance to gate four of the Naval Base, a religious procession was held: clergymen, nuns, college students, high school age students and mothers carrying their babies viewed the proceedings. About 300 persons gathered there. The Rhode Island clergy singing the Battle Hymn of the Republic followed with prayer and various speeches. Newport Police were present while Rhode Island State Police piped the way.

The clergy's theme—an appeal to the President to stop the bombing immediately and order American withdrawal from Southeast Asia. Various pamphlets were passed out including one graffitied, The People's American Daily News, which has in its motto, "All the news that serves the anti-facet revolution!" Also distributed was a reprint of Chairman Mao Tsetung's solemn statement of May 20, 1970 in support of the struggles of the world's people against U.S. imperialism. A small group of anti-war protesters carried a high color poster of Mao Tsetung along with a Viet Cong flag. Another piece of literature, supporting the battle flag, was distributed to the crowd.

The clergy's effort was one of patriotism not seeking to undermine America but seeking to make her a land where men of conscience can live together in peace. The youthful element proceeded from gate four to gate one holding various placards with the believers in their automobiles gazing intently at the length of the street as thronged by it. It was here at gate one that the union workers or hard hats as they are so often called gathered. The combination of hard hats and youths totaled about 2000 as the union workers outnumbered the youths by about 4:1.

The one mile march to gate one took approximately fifteen minutes. The sun shined brightly overhead as Rhode Island State Police and Newport Police intensified their patrols. The hard hats lined up on both sides of the street watched closely as the youths marched past them and a few union workers wearing their familiar red or yellow "hard hats" smiled at the young female marchers.

What appeared to be a completely peaceful demonstration suddenly erupted into violence of a minor nature, as the marchers turned the corner to the Naval Base Police line. The majority of the Davis-Bacon which stayed in the crowd, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential are decidedly above average.

1971 Summer Schedule

RWC Students
Selected To Who's Who

Eleven Roger Williams College students have been nominated and accepted by the editors for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The students are: Serge Baudino, Murray Moscow, Elaine Basso, Bill Casey, Steve Salvatore, Dave Hoffman, Steve Jenkins, Bill Wallbrook, Howard Ginsberg, Al McKinnon and Dick Burns.

This house is conferred annually upon outstanding student leaders from approximately 1,000 colleges and universities in the United States. In selecting candidates, campus nominating committeemen are instructed to choose those students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential are decidedly above average.
THE YOUTH VOTE
— from a right to a reality

By 1972 there will be eleven and a half million Americans between the ages of 18 and 21 — more than eight percent of the total electorate. The narrow margins by which recent Presidential races have been decided suggest that the new electorate can make a real difference, even if it swings one way or the other by only a slight majority.

But those who feel that the Supreme Court’s decisions have automatically unleashed a huge liberal voting force are in for a big surprise. College students make up little more than a third of the 18- to 21-year-old population. They are outnumbered by the 4,100,000 who are full-time workers, and nearly matched in numbers by new entrants, are high school students, homemakers, members of the armed services, or unemployed workers. College students themselves are not necessarily liberal — Nixon won the majorities of college students at college campuses in 1968. No doubt student voting will be affected in the polls. The following article, from the New York Times, outlines some of the difficulties in translating the Court’s decision into full political participation by the newly enfranchised. It has been excerpted from a recent address to the National Planning Committee of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO.

THE YOUTH VOTE
— from a right to a reality

By 1972 there will be eleven and a half million Americans between the ages of 18 and 21 — more than eight percent of the total electorate. The narrow margins by which recent Presidential races have been decided suggest that the new electorate can make a real difference, even if it swings one way or the other by only a slight majority.

But those who feel that the Supreme Court’s decisions have automatically unleashed a huge liberal voting force are in for a big surprise. College students make up little more than a third of the 18- to 21-year-old population. They are outnumbered by the 4,100,000 who are full-time workers, and nearly matched in numbers by new entrants, are high school students, homemakers, members of the armed services, or unemployed workers. College students themselves are not necessarily liberal — Nixon won the majorities of college students at college campuses in 1968. No doubt student voting will be affected in the polls. The following article, from the New York Times, outlines some of the difficulties in translating the Court’s decision into full political participation by the newly enfranchised. It has been excerpted from a recent address to the National Planning Committee of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO.

THE YOUTH VOTE
— from a right to a reality

By 1972 there will be eleven and a half million Americans between the ages of 18 and 21 — more than eight percent of the total electorate. The narrow margins by which recent Presidential races have been decided suggest that the new electorate can make a real difference, even if it swings one way or the other by only a slight majority.

But those who feel that the Supreme Court’s decisions have automatically unleashed a huge liberal voting force are in for a big surprise. College students make up little more than a third of the 18- to 21-year-old population. They are outnumbered by the 4,100,000 who are full-time workers, and nearly matched in numbers by new entrants, are high school students, homemakers, members of the armed services, or unemployed workers. College students themselves are not necessarily liberal — Nixon won the majorities of college students at college campuses in 1968. No doubt student voting will be affected in the polls. The following article, from the New York Times, outlines some of the difficulties in translating the Court’s decision into full political participation by the newly enfranchised. It has been excerpted from a recent address to the National Planning Committee of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO.
Demonstration

(Continued from Page 1)

dressing the Office Candidate graduating class. It was now 12 noon. The chants of the hard hats were joined by the young protesters shouting: "David-Biron out in 71, Nixon-Agnew out in 72. They also discourage us from attending." An uneasiness could be seen on the facial expressions of the officers. Photographers were constantly clicking away, however, no violence occurred here at gate one.

At 12:12 p.m., as a precautionary measure, a bright red fire engine was dispatched to the gate. This engine, number 3, stopped about thirty yards behind the officers blocking the roadway. One fireman dressed in shiny white gear stood atop the engine keeping an eye on the movement of his superior officer and intensely staring at the demonstrators. A constant armed Marine Corp contingent, flanked in three columns, could now be seen about 100 yards directly behind the fire engine. They were ready and waiting.

As the Doors to towers A and D will be kept locked at all times.

For the next 20 minutes at a calmsness prevailed. It ended about 12:32 as the Presidential party boarded the helicopters; the crowd hissed and booed. As the helicopter departed the crowd turned away and silently dispersed. Small groups and sights of relief could be seen on the faces of the officers, and as I walked away I heard one say to another officer. "Thank God that's over."

Three Engineering Students Take The First Step

Two engineering students from Roger Williams College passed the Engineering-In-Training exam which was given in December 1970. The students are Peter Donahue and Thomas Al-Cassad; both are seniors in the Construction Engineering Program. A third student, who is in the Evening school is the Nano Goddard.

The Engineer-In-Training exam is given twice a year by the National Society of Professional Engineers, and it the first step towards registration as a professional engineer. Passing this exam means that these students, after four years of qualified experience, will be eligible for their registration. Since this exam is given on a national level, the fact that Roger Williams College students passed it greatly add to the bid for accreditation.

Student Michael R. Katz Works As Intern To Attorney General

By Carol W. Snapp

Mr. Katz — now there's a name to remember — he may be famous someday. He's important already, and someday when he's no longer a student and he's able to devote full time to his efforts in the field of justice, he likely will be famous as well as important.

He is important now, because he scores a great deal in improving various aspects of the field of justice, but unlike many people who care, Mr. Katz does more than sit and talk about how much he turns over a cup of coffee. He acts.

Recently he initiated a tutoring program at the Adult Correctional Institute (ACI) in Cranston. At first, he did a research project on the ACI, and included in it some plans for re habilitation. While he was preparing the project, the Roger Williams College Junior had an opportunity to talk with several inmates.

They told me the report would be no good if I didn't follow it up, so I felt I had a moral obligation to follow it up to be said. Thus, the tutoring program.

The political science major presently is participating in a 12-week internship to R. J. Al-Cassad in Providence, R.I. The program is one of his projects during the internship.

He contacted the Women's Department of the ACI and arranged to have the program be included in the Women's Department's schedule.

New Dorm Policies

In response to the increasing number of personal and property abuse and theft in the residence hall, the standing policy that all unit doors must be kept locked at all times is being emphasized, and the following policies have been recently enacted:

1. The doors to towers A and D will be kept locked at all times.

2. All visitors to the units must call their host or hostess by telephone to gain entry to the unit. House telephones are located in the lower tower of B and C. Call 2128 for telephone information between the hours of 9:30 and 21:30 during the coming hours.

3. Upon request by any. college official (dorm directors, R.A. security guards) anyone in the residence hall or on campus must show a proper I.D. card.

It is hoped that these steps will facilitate optimum security for the residents of the hall and at the same time maintain the right to 24 hour visitation as granted by the Dorm Parchial Hours Policy.

Harlow

Two engineering students from Roger Williams College passed the Engineering-In-Training exam which was given in December 1970. The students are Peter Donahue and Thomas Al-Cassad; both are seniors in the Construction Engineering Program. A third student, who is in the Evening school is the Nano Goddard.

The Engineer-In-Training exam is given twice a year by the National Society of Professional Engineers, and it the first step towards registration as a professional engineer. Passing this exam means that these students, after four years of qualified experience, will be eligible for their registration. Since this exam is given on a national level, the fact that Roger Williams College students passed it greatly add to the bid for accreditation.

As of March 1, 76% of the seniors from Shepard's College have received their notices. Those who have not received their notices are strongly encouraged to do so immediately. Just go to the Shepard's College Photography Department and they will do the rest. THERE IS NO COST TO YOU IN ANY WAY!

X-Ray Results

The results of the chest x-rays taken on Feb. 17 and 18 as a result of the book sales, the proceeds of which will be used to add color to the Annual 1971 Quill. These results, as far as we know, are the first x-ray given to the residence hall. The physical structure of the dormitory hall limited the amount of security protection. It has been decided that every student must have an original security allowed in the construction of the building. Both guard and tower doors in the police section are to be locked at all times. Visitors are not allowed to call their hosts from the telephones located in the bottom of the boy's towers. The responsibility lies with each student to keep the doors locked and to question anyone who comes hanging on the unit door. In addition, Dean Goldberg asked everyone to try it for a while. It is a new responsibility that you have in your home. He also added that with the entire security policy being revised, perhaps there will be an addition of a security student.

All Dorm Meeting

Thursday, March 18, 1971

By Susan Harlow

Tuesday, March 9, 1971 an "all dorm" meeting was held in the dining hall. Tom Early, President of the Dorm Government, opened the meeting. Dean Goldberg was the first speaker. His major area of concern was security in the dormitory. He stated that in the last few weeks there had been serious problems in the dorm. He felt that there was very little communication among resident students. The 24 hour partial policy is directly related to the dormitory situation. Since residents can live freely under few restrictions valuable and personal safety are, in danger. When the 24 hour partial policy was presented to the Dean by the students it was taken for granted that students were responsible enough to live within the system. Lack of communication and respect are causes of the present situation. The 24 hour partial policy itself barely escaped questioning.

The physical structure of the residence hall limited the amount of security protection. It has been decided that every student must have an original security pass in the construction of the building. Both guard and tower doors in the police section are to be locked at all times. Visitors are not allowed to call their hosts from the telephones located in the bottom of the boy's towers. The responsibility lies with each student to keep the doors locked and to question anyone who comes hanging on the unit door. In addition, Dean Goldberg asked everyone to try it for a while. It is a new responsibility that you have in your home. He also added that with the entire security policy being revised, perhaps there will be an addition of a security student.

Miss Rushton spoke next. All your students have been dissatisfaction with the present food service. The concession on the dining hall will go to A.R.A. next year. Mr. Perris will be leaving, as he has received a better offer from his canton. Miss Rushton assured us that there would be a visible improvement in service.

When the new dormitory opens, there will be additional mandates to feed. One way to elevate the problem would be to build a small market place where a variety of the cafeteria thus eliminating the short orders. In closing Miss Rushton interred the location of the Deep-In-Center which will be located in one of the dorm rooms.

Tom Early closed the meeting with the word, "when are the dorm residents to attend Dorm government meetings every Tuesday at 6:30 in the common lounge.

As of March 1, 76% of the seniors from Shepard's College have received their notices. Those who have not received their notices are strongly encouraged to do so immediately. Just go to the Shepard's College Photography Department and they will do the rest. THERE IS NO COST TO YOU IN ANY WAY!

The first deadline has been past and things are running smoothly. This is the time that students are taking pictures of students, sports, activities, meetings and any other activity that involves BWC students. Its goal is to get as many students in the 1971 Witness as possible. Up to this time, 6 pages of ads have been sold and a goal is set to sell 20 pages, but due to the decline in the economy it was decided that there will be no good if I didn't follow it up to be said. Thus, the tutoring program.

A "smaller project" Mr. Katz has taken up is an investigation into crime trends in Rhode Island. He hopes to do a study on crime, to illustrate the wheres, whens and whos of it. The Rhode Island New Yorker finds Rhode Island "unique", it's small, compact so its easy to meet and get to know them," he pronounced. "I think of doing my residency to R.I. I think it Michael Katz Page 4
Scenes From The Newport Demonstration

Friday, March 12, 1971

Defense Dept. Police blocking hard hats and youths at the entrance to gate one

The majority of hard hats stayed close to this barrier 500 yds in front of gate one

Religious groups in prayer and song at Gate 4 of the Naval Base

Mao's face about to go up in smoke

The faceless sign of the times

We'll wait for May Day, Mr. Nixon
The Oil Barons
In S. E. Asia

By Henry Weisberg

College Press Service (CPS) — One important aspect of the "Vietnamization" plan for Indochina has received little attention: the Americanization of Southeast Asia's rich offshore oil beds.

In December, 1970, the Thieu Ky regime gave the official go-ahead for negotiating offshore leasing arrangements between South Vietnam and twenty-one contending petroleum companies, mostly American. Extensive petroleum exploration in Indochina and South Vietnam has been conducted for more than two years.

The eighteen offshore South Vietnamese concessions are in the Gulf of Thailand and the southeast offshore region adjacent to the penal colony of Con Son, Saigon will offer the concessions on a "best offer basis," allowing great flexibility on the part of contending petroleum companies.

The importance of oil in the entire Southeast Asian continental shelf stems from predictions that within the next ten years the industrial world will consume as much petroleum as was produced in the entire previous history of all use. A U.S. oil expert with ten years' experience in Southeast Asia has said that in five years "the offshore oil fields of Thailand, Cambodia, Malaysia, South Vietnam and Indonesia will be ready to produce more than is now produced in the whole western world."

In addition to the offshore area, prospecting has also occurred in the Mekong Delta and in the alluvial plains of Thailand. Potential petroleum deposits have been detected along the entire continental shelf connecting Japan, Indonesia and Australia. A report by World Oil in August predicts "a daily average crude production of 400 million barrels by 1975 from this area." That would be 146 billion barrels a year, or nearly one-fourth of the entire production of petroleum in the world to date.

America has a longstanding interest in the natural resources of Southeast Asia. In 1945, Henry Cabot Lodge, then U.S. Ambassador to South Vietnam, stated: "He who holds or has the influence in Vietnam can control the future of the Philippines and Formosa to the East, Thailand and Burma with their huge rice supplies to the west, and Malaysia and Indonesia with their rubber, oil, tin to the north."

The recent military escalations into Cambodia and Laos coincide with the actual determination of petroleum deposits in Indochina. Agence France-Press reported Feb. 7 that "the very recent discovery of important oil deposits in Thailand and South Vietnam explains in great part, according to reliable sources in Moscow, the resurgence of military activities in Indochina, particularly the recent events in Laos. One can not know precisely when the existence of the deposits became known to the Americans, but according to the same sources, one can not discard the possibility that decisive information on this subject was obtained before the unrolling of events in Cambodia last spring." Jacques Decroix, respected Southeast Asian editor of Le Monde, wondered on Jan. 8: "Have the oil companies perhaps received some solid assurances from Washington concerning the willingness of the United States to hold Indochina, and South Vietnam in particular?"

A map of Indochina shows where oil has been found. Oil and Shell have been investing in the region for more than fifty years. At present, offshore oil concessions cover about a map of Southeast Asian waters, and by the end of 1971 Indochinese petroleum production is expected to reach one million barrels a day, with American involvement diminishing 80 per cent of production. U.S. investment in Indonesian oil since 1959 has jumped from $100 million in 1959 to $200 million in 1970, and is expected to climb to $600 million in 1971. Pertamina, the national Indonesian petroleum company, has negotiated more than twenty-eight production and exploration contracts with foreign companies, seventeen of which are American. To date there have been five major petroleum finds on the shelf, one by Royal Dutch Shell and four by American companies: Atlantic Richfield (which discovered the Alaskan North Slope discovery), Cities Service and the Union Oil Company and Natomas of California. A side from Indonesia, OIL BARONS

Page 6
THE QUILI

Diving Club
Sponsors Event

Members of the Diving Club are planning an event open to all divers and non-divers. It's an Ecology Dive being held on May 1st. One member is speaking to an official for advice concerning a body of water in the Bristol area which needs cleaning up and is safe to dive in. Non-divers would be welcome to come along and pick up the garbage along the bottom. The Bristol Police Department will have men working in case of injury. For hauling garbage, the members will either hire a trailer or they will ask the physical plant for use of their pick-up trucks. This dive will be open to Roger Williams students, but if it is successful another dive will be held including other R.I. colleges and universities.

If anyone has any questions concerning the Ecology Dive or membership in the Diving Club they may contact a club member every Monday, 2:30 p.m., in room 78.

Summer Schedule

(Continued from Page 1)

June 21 to Aug. 10. Some courses on this campus will be offered in special sessions running from June 7 through July 15 and from July 15 to Aug. 27.

The Roger Williams College Summer Program is open to anyone. Those may be addressed to the Dean of Admissions, Bristol campus.

Oil Barons

(Continued from Page 5)

Singapore, base for the burgeoning oil boom here in South East Asia, suggested:

"We've had all the feelings of an oil boom here in Singapore already. But with the recent chaos in the Middle East the oil winds must be facing now to get more firmly into Southeast Asia.'

THE STRAWBERRY STATEMENT

4 BIG NIGHTS — MAR. 25, 26, 27, 28
LECTURE HALL #1 — SUN. 7:00 & 9:30
All Seats $1.00

FAMOUS ..
FLAVOR CRISP
FRIED CHICKEN

DELIVERED TO YOUR DORM
$10. MIN. ORDER
$2 DELIVERY CHARGE
LAST ORDER TAKEN
AT 10:00 P.M. NIGHTLY

Call 846-8877

FAMOUS...
FLAVOR CRISP
FRIED CHICKEN

DELIVERED TO YOUR DORM
$10. MIN. ORDER
$2 DELIVERY CHARGE
LAST ORDER TAKEN
AT 10:00 P.M. NIGHTLY

Call 846-8877

THE STRAWBERRY STATEMENT

DE FELICE

Florist

271 Wood St.
Bristol, R.I.
Tel. 253-8500

ROGER WILLIAMS COLLEGE
Bristol Campus

The Bristol campus Student Senate presents:
THE RHODE ISLAND PREMIERE of
"MAIDSTONE"
A MYSTERY BY NORMAN MAILER

with
NORMAN MAILER
RI PORN

March 17 & 18
Two Showings Each Evening
8 p.m. 10 p.m.
Lecture Hall #1
Donation of $1.50
"My kids just loved it!
J. E. Hoover
Gov. White Paper for Children